School Tax Election Beaten in Committee

REFERENDUM VOTE

CHAIRMAN BREAKS
TIE IN COMMITTEE

All Other Amendments to Omnibus Charter Revision Bill Are Favorably Reported.

The public schools of Atlanta Tuesday afternoon in the general assembly lost, 9 to 8, the first skirmish in what loomed as a long drawn out parliamentary battle between school supporters and opponents of increased taxes.

The municipal government committee of the house voted, after a public hearing followed by a spirited debate in executive session, to report unfavorably the proposal to authorize the city of Atlanta to hold a referendum election on the question of levying an emergency tax of one mill for school purposes. All other charter changes asked by council were recommended favorably for passage.

The committee's report was decided by the vote of the chairman, R. F.
Mann, of Glynn county, after the 10 members present had voted in a tie of 8 to 8.

How Representatives Voted.
Favoring the referendum for Atlanta were Representatives Bands of Catoosa, Griffiths of Ware, Parker of Ware, Parrish of Bullock, Reville of Richmond, Swindle of Jackson, Wood of Fulton and Latham and Hall.

Opposing the referendum were Chairman Mann of Glynn, Representatives Atkinson of Chatham, Burdett of Dougherty, Roberts of Fannin, Smith of Fulton, Vaughn of Rockdale, Wimberly of Laurens, Camp of Campbell, Sapp of Whitfield.

In a spirited exchange of arguments before the committee after it had gone into executive session, Representative Bessie Kempton, of Fulton, rallied the forces opposed to the tax referendum, while Representative J.
O. Wood, of Fulton a member of the committee, urged that the referendum be permitted. John Y. Smith, third member of the Fulton delegation, and author of the amendment to the Atlanta omnibus bill which eliminated the referendum election, who was also a member of the committee, did not participate in the debate, but cast his vote against the referendum.

Fulton Delegation Split.
The school tax election amendment was one of a group of charter amendments introduced in the omnibus Atlanta charter revision bill. Members of the Fulton delegation were in accord with this provision. Representatives Kempton and Smith joined in opposition and defeated it in committee, despite the support given it by Representative Wood.

The omnibus bill included, among

From Atlanta's First Train
To Many Thousand Carloads

When the State of Georgia wanted an engine for the new road between Atlanta and Marietta, the locomotive had to be hauled here from Madison. Loaded on the very stoutest of wagons, it was drawn some sixty miles behind sixteen Georgia mules.

This was the first engine that the inhabitants of the little village then called Terminus had ever laid eyes on. A box car was brought from Milledgeville and the wonderful iron horse, on December 24th, 1842, puffed away to Marietta.
Never a man in those days, naturally, could have dreamed Atlanta of 1924!

Now, taking only three separate months—March, June and September—of one year, it is estimated that 2,946 carloads come into Atlanta alone, and all these from states outside Georgia.

The market is here—and advertisers, national and local, have proved for themselves that the economical way to reach this market is through continuous advertising in the columns of The Atlanta Constitution.

Beauty Tournay Judges
BRADLEY CO. ANNOUNCES GIFTS FOR "MISS ATLANTA" Are Now Being Selected

Announcement of judges who will be in charge of final selection of "Miss Atlanta" to represent this city at the National Beauty Tournayment in Atlantic City early in September, will be made within the course of the next few days.

This was made known Tuesday by the management of the "Miss Atlanta" tournament, which Tuesday began to select five of Atlanta's most prominent men and women citizens to preside at the choosing of Atlanta's beauty queen to vie with reigning belles of a hundred other American cities for the title of "Miss America" and for possession of the "golden mermaid," a statue wrought in pure gold and valued at $5,000.

The present plan is to appoint five judges, three of whom shall be men

FRANCE PRESENTS COMPROMISE PLAN TO END DEADLOCK

Delegates Willing To Yield Right to Separate Action Against Germany Under Certain Conditions.

London, July 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—For the first time since the inter-allied conference assembled, the French delegates tonight indicated a willingness to surrender under certain conditions, their right to separate action against Germany in case of a reparations default under the Dawes plan.

If the allies can not unanimously agree whether a reparations default has occurred, France is willing to let an arbitration board, on which there will be experts of the original Dawes commission, decide the question.

One condition is that German payments in goods be linked with the question of defaults and France acquire new rights relating to payments in kind which are outside the present reading of the Versailles treaty.

May End Deadlock.
These and other conditions the French experts tonight are embodying into a proposal which they hope will end the deadlock.

Since the inter-allied proceedings, which were marked by the timely intervention of Colonel James A. Logan, the American observer, which the delegates today characterized as having saved the conference from possible break-down, the French delegation has been working to co-ordinate Colonel Logan's suggestions with ideas of their own in an effort to produce a formula which will solve the problem of how default under the Dawes plan is to be declared and what penalties the allies intend to inflict therefor and at the same time satisfy the international bankers who will be asked to recommend 40-000,000 pounds sterling to investors in order to launch the Dawes project.

Whether these new French proposals, in which there will be a departure from the unyielding stand on separate action, will be acceptable to the other delegates, cannot be fully determined until the draft is laid before the assembly.

BATTLE KLANSMEN
IN MASSACHUSETTS

Pitched Fight Staged Near Lancaster, One Man Being Shot—Near Riot at Spencer.

Worcester, Mass., July 30.—A battle between 200 men, described as members of the Ku Klux Klan, and 500 men said to be opposed to the organization, was in progress in Lancaster, early today about 20 miles from here. Reports which have reached the police say the two forces have thrown stones and sticks at each other and that one man had been shot.
Calls for assistance have been sent to the state patrol barracks in Framingham, Spencer, Brookfield and other places.

Edward F. Bird, Leominster, was rushed to a hospital from Lancaster, at an early hour this morning. Police said he was the man shot in the Klan riot at that place. He is in a serious condition.

Reports also reached the police that a battle was narrowly averted in Spencer, when klansmen, coming from a meeting in automobiles, were stoned by anti-sympathizers. The presence of the state police prevented trouble.

The officers are searching the vicinity and questioning persons to get more information concerning the affair.

Five men taken into custody by the state police patrol at the scene of the Spencer riot early this morning, charged with being implicated in the trouble. All gave Spencer addresses.
The police say they had not determined the charges that would be placed against the men pending an investigation.

STATE COMPLETES CHAIN OF EVIDENCE IN FRANKS MURDER

Prosecutor Announces He Will Demand Trial by Jury If Defense Calls Alienists.

"DICKIE" LOEB'S TEARS
ALL STATE HAS LEFT

Reading of Confessions of Loeb and Leopold Fails To Hold Attention of the Judge.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Chicago, July 29.—The state's "mountain of evidence" which Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, expects to send Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, kidnapers and slayers of Robert Franks, to the gallows, is complete, the prosecutor announced tonight. He will close his case as soon as court convenes tomorrow, he said.

If the defense attempts to introduce the testimony of any alienists as to the mental condition of the two millionaires' sons, who have pleaded guilty, Mr. Crowe said he will immediately demand that a jury be called to determine whether the slayers are mentally responsible.

Only Tears Remain.
Only the tears which "Dickie" Loeb shed the night he confessed to his part in the kidnaping and murder of 14-year-old Robert Franks, remained tonight to complete the state's case.

This became known when Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, told Judge John R. Caverly that five minutes would suffice for the final bit of evidence by which he has been informing the court of the circumstances of the crime. He announced after adjournment that one of his attaches, who saw Loeb crying when he confessed, would testify to that fact.

Loeb happened to overhear this announcement and asked newspaper men to repeat it. He refused to comment.

"Different Reaction."
The testimony is intended to demonstrate a "different reaction" to the crime by Loeb from that which he has displayed in the court room. For six court days he and Leopold have followed the state's testimony with a cool interest that permitted them to smile and exchange whispered confidences with each other and their attaches, Clarence S. Darrow and Benjamin Bachrach. Outside the court they have been almost merry in their reactions.

La Follette Raps
Delay in Making Report on Sugar

Attempts To Intimidate and Obstruct Probe Laid to Sugar Interests.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
Washington, July 29.—Senator La Follette has stirred things up here by his sudden and sensational charge that sugar interests have brought pressure
"through the highest official channels of this government" to hold up the final report of the U. S. tariff commission on the cost of production of sugar, which is expected to lead to important developments.

La Follette declared further that attempts have been made to intimidate and obstruct action of the commission, and cited "persistent reports" through several weeks that the investigation had in reality been completed, and the report to the president was ready. The investigation has been going on since March 17, 1922.

Early Report Planned.
Though there has been no word from him recently as to when the report would be sent to the president, Chairman Marvin, of the commission, stated Tuesday when he learned of La Follette's charge that:
1. A report would be made within a week to President Coolidge.
2. The commission would consider a letter of Senator La Follette asking information at a meeting Friday.

Charges Intimidation.
"I have reason to believe that representatives of the sugar interests have been powerful enough to delay throughout."

Cheer Comedienne, Boo Cop
BUNCH OF ONIONS GIVEN POLICEMAN
As Trial Is Held in Theater

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Chicago, July 29.—A wildly cheering throng today greeted Rosetta and Vivian Duncan, comedienne, when they appeared on the stage of an Evanston theater as complainants against a Cicero policeman who broke Rosetta's nose and her rib, July 4, after he had arrested her brother for violating a traffic regulation.

An accommodating Evanston justice of the peace hired a theater so his neighbors might witness the trial.
The audience sent up flowers to the stage and cheered Miss Duncan's testimony despite admonitions of the justice. Then a bailiff brought the policeman named as defendant a large bunch of onions tied with a pink ribbon and bearing a card inscribed
"From a Friend." The cheering broke out anew.

$48,000,000 BOND ISSUE APPROVED FOR GOOD ROADS

Committee Votes To Report Favorably the Bill Designed To Build Highway System.

The house committee on constitutional amendments Tuesday night voted 15 to 7 to report favorably a bill authorizing a $48,000,000 bond issue for highway construction. The measure was a substitute for house bill No. 590.

Representative Mann, of Glynn, author of the bill, presented the measure to the committee and pointed out that the substitute called for $48-000,000 instead of $40,000,000 as in the original bill. Forty million was asked for construction of highways and eight million for reimbursing those counties which had certificates of having helped to build the state roads.

He pointed out that by a bill passed in 1919, two roads were authorized to be built out of every county seat. From the money received from the bond issue these county seat roads would be connected. He explained in detail to the committee how the issue could be financed.

Redistrict State.
According to the substitute measure the state should be divided into line construction districts and each district should have one representative on the highway board, thus providing for nine members instead of three as at present.

A number of speakers appeared before the committee, among them being Mrs. R. K. Rambo, state chairwoman of the Federated Clubs of Georgia. She said she represented 100,000 women who were interested in good roads and she begged that the committee would report favorably on the bill.

W. T. Winn, president of the Georgia State Automobile association, appeared in behalf of the bill as representative of the association of which he is president and of the Georgia County Commissioners' association.

Elders Oppose Bill.
Representative Elders, of Tattnall county, opposed this measure, calling attention to the fact that there were two bills now in the house which could, he said, give the revenue necessary to build these highways and make it possible to pay for the work as it is done. He said that he was in favor of the highways but was opposed to the methods provided by the measure under consideration. He declared himself in favor of giving the four cents per gallon tax on gasoline to the highway department to enable that department to pay for the work as it is done.

EAGAN PARK MAN
KIDNAPED SUNDAY
FOUND IN FAYETTE

Carried to Adjacent County to Home of Relatives and Pitched Out of Cap-tors' Automobile.

REFUSES TO DISCUSS
CAUSE OF ABDUCTION

Motive of Crime Baffles Police, Who Hope To Clear Up All Phases Today.

Oscar E. Dutton, alleged to have been kidnaped from his home in Egan Park Sunday night by two unidentified men, was found early Tuesday night at the home of relatives in Fayette county, but circumstances surrounding the kidnaping remain mysterious. The motive for the crime continues to baffle police.

Dutton is alive and well, but when seen Tuesday night by G. W.
Knowles, at whose home he roomed, was reticent. He refused to discuss the case or to explain details of his treatment at the hands of his kidnapers. He did not return to Atlanta with Knowles, but plans to stay with relatives in Fayette county for several days.

In the meantime, county police have uncovered clues which are expected to lead to arrests today. They claim to have unraveled practically the whole chain of events, but refuse to divulge any information until after arrests have been made.

Not Harmed or Threatened.
Dutton, according to his brief statements to Knowles, neither was harmed nor threatened, but was taken direct to Fayette county by his cap-tors and thrown from the automobile near the home of a relative there. He failed to tell Knowles whether he had been able to learn the identity of any of his captors, or whether he intends to push charges against them.

He told Knowles that the two men who, in the guise of officers of the law, handcuffed him and forced him to get into their automobile, were joined by seven other men, and that the party, occupying two automobiles, proceeded to Fayette county. The officers, at the time of the bogus arrest, claimed that a warrant had been issued for Dutton on a vagrancy charge.

Dutton was found when Knowles, knowing that the missing man had

TWO ARE KILLED
BY BOOTLEGGERS

Posse of 150 Officers,
Armed With Riot Guns, Joins Pitched Battle With 'Shiners.'

Wilmington, N. C., July 29.—A posse of 50 policemen and county officers, armed with riot guns, left here at 9 o'clock tonight for Phoenix, Brunswick county, following receipt of news that prohibition violators were engaged in a pitched battle with bootleggers.

The bodies of Deputy United States Marshal Lilly and City Prohibition Agent Leon George were found in their automobile on a road two miles from Phoenix, Brunswick county, tonight. Both bodies were riddled with bullets fired at close range. George's police dog was also found dead in the car.

The weapons of both officers were found in their pockets and had not been fired.

First news of the tragedy came in the form of a telephone message from Phoenix to the effect that a negro had reported hearing twenty-five or thirty shots fired and had seen the bodies of the wounded officers at a distance.

At 11 o'clock an additional 100 men had been hurried into Brunswick county to join in the search for the slayers.

George was 52 years old and had been a member of the police department for twenty-five years. For the past three years he had been assigned actively to prohibition enforcement work, his efforts in this direction having been widely exploited in motion picture news reels. He was unmarried.

Lilly was about 45 years old and is survived by a wife and several children.

LEGISLATORS HEAR M'ALLISTER HIT
BY U. S. C. MEMBERS

Sordid Story of Abuse and Neglect of Confederate Veterans Related to Committee.

M'ALLISTER ENTERS
DENIAL OF CHARGES

Sweeping Investigation Expected To Be Ordered by Legislative Body at Meeting Today.

Sensational charges including mistreatment of Confederate veterans in the Old Soldiers' home here, gross mismanagement of the institution, and graft and corruption, were made Tuesday night against W. E. McAllister, superintendent, by representatives of the Atlanta and Fulton county chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at a public hearing before the invalid pension soldier's home committee house of representatives. The hearing began Tuesday afternoon and continued until an early hour Wednesday morning.

Mrs. John A. Perdue, president of the Atlanta chapter, U. S. C.; Mrs. E.
B. Williams, also a member of the Atlanta chapter, and several other representatives of the Atlanta and Fulton county chapters, including former Governor Hugh Dorsey, appeared before the committee to press the charges, which were denied by McAllister.

May Investigate.
Although more than seven hours of Tuesday afternoon and night were consumed in hearing various speakers, the committee will resume its hearing at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Members of the committee were not inclined to discuss the matter following adjournment early Tuesday morning, but it was freely predicted that a subcommittee would be named today to make a sweeping investigation of the charges.

The hearing was brought about by the introduction of a bill in the lower house of the legislature last week which, if passed, automatically means McAllister's dismissal, in that it names qualifications which must be possessed by the superintendent which McAllister is unable to fulfill, it is alleged.

The bill, introduced by Representatives Smith, of Bryan, and Knight, of Berrien, provides that the superintendent must be an allopathic physician and a lineal descendant of a Confederate veteran, which qualifications McAllister is unable to meet according to speakers at the hearing. The measure also provides for reduction of the board of trustees of the institution from 12 to 7, the board to include five men and two women; and that the hospital must be in charge of a graduate registered nurse, who also is a dietitian.

Grave Charges Made.
Among other things, it is charged that the hospital, operated in connection with the home, is "filthy, in-sanitary and that it meets none of the conditions provided by law; that Mc-

C. von HERRMANN,
Meteorologist, Weather Bureau.

Allister used lumber owned by the home for his personal use; and that he sold articles donated by the home for aged and feeble inmates and appropriated the money for his personal use.

All charges were denied by the present head of the institution, who claims that the home is in infinitely better condition now than when he took charge five years ago; that the hospital "is the cleanest place in the city of Atlanta," and that instead of mismanaging the institution, he has saved money on every possible occasion. The lumber referred to in the charge, he said, was used in constructing a kitchen for the home.

McAllister, appearing in his own defense at the hearing Tuesday night, entered emphatic denial of charges of waste and mismanagement. He declared that the record of his five years' service as head of the institution would bear out the fallacy of charges preferred, and that a thorough investigation would completely exonerate his administration of the home.

Brand Hospital Conditions.

A number of affidavits were read which charged that conditions in the hospital of the institution are "all most rotten with filth and most undesirable to live in and extremely detrimental to patients who are in it."

J. M. Booser, lumberman, told the committee that in 1923 he entered into a contract with Mr. McAllister to cut timber on the land belonging to the Soldiers' Home, stipulating that two-thirds of the timber should go to him and one-third to Mr. McAllister. He testified that in 1923 he cut 100,000 feet of timber and part of this was hauled by him to Mr. McAllister's home. Mr. Booser said in 1924 he sold timber to another man, whose name he did not know. It was brought out in the testimony that in that year 175,000 feet of lumber was cut.

Mr. McAllister stated to the committee that he used all the lumber coming to him to build a kitchen for the Soldiers' Home. The U. D. C. charged that the sale of no lumber had been entered in the annual report of the superintendent.

Meat Hauled Away.

Ed Simmons, said to be employed at Lanier university, testified at the hearing that last summer he carried a truck of barbecued meat and a truck of soft drinks to the Soldiers' Home, donated by the Ku Klux Klan. He said he heard Mr. McAllister say that "so much meat would make the soldiers sick." He declared he saw the meat hauled to a little store owned by Mr. McAllister and saw the negro cook make sandwiches with a portion of the meat and later bought one of these same sandwiches for ten cents.

The U. D. C. charged that the only attendants at the hospital of the Soldiers' Home were two negro convicts, two nurses, neither of whom are graduates, "who do not properly attend to their duties," and a doctor, who at present is an interne at Emory university.

McAllister Defends Conditions.

Mr. McAllister told the committee that when he entered the home five years ago, it was in a deplorable condition, that he was allowed to spend some money for improvements, and that "it is now the cleanest place in the city of Atlanta."

He further stated that the negro convicts gave good service and that the Atlanta chapter of U. D. C. has given one dollar out of its pockets to the home in the last three years, declaring that he had turned it to the Atlanta chapter more money than they had ever gotten back from them. He added the U. D. C. had never given the old soldiers anything except "a little candy and fruit, which usually made them sick."

He admitted that the convicts had done some work on his private property on at least two occasions.

Many Speakers Heard.

Mrs. Perdue, Mrs. Williams and others made lengthy statements before the committee at the afternoon session, charging that conditions at the hospital were deplorable and citing a number of instances purporting to substantiate allegations. Former Governor Hugh M. Dorsey read a number of sworn affidavits which members of the U. D. C. said bore out charges made by the Atlanta and Fulton chapters.

Testimony was presented to show that food donated by a fraternal organization of this city was converted by Mr. McAllister and used for his personal benefit; and further testimony that food donated by the U. D. C. under a contract whereby he was to secure one-third of the timber cut from land belonging to the Soldiers' Home, was used by him for his private property. It was further charged that veterans confined to the hospital were "neglected" and that conditions in the institution were "unhealthy, unsanitary and reflected discredit upon the management of affairs of the home."

U. S. DISTRICT COURT OF SOUTH GEORGIA INCREASES FINES

Macon, Ga., July 29.—(Special.)—More than $300,000 in fines were imposed in the United States district court for the southern district of Georgia, during the fiscal year ending June 30, according to the report of F. G. Boatright, district attorney, made public today. Fines and forfeitures for the year total $305,192.71, while for the previous year the total was $97,823.68. Of the total fines imposed the government realized $115,210.23 in cash.

Cases for violation of the prohibition law are on the increase, according to the report. There was a total of 1,223 prosecutions in whisky cases during the year, against 1,180 for the previous year.

relatives in Fayette county, went there to apprise them of the man's being kidnapped, and to enlist their aid in the search for him. As he neared the house he saw Dutton, the center of a large crowd of gesticulating, shouting people. Dutton apparently was afraid to talk long with Knowles, especially in the presence of the crowd, and Knowles was forced to return to his home without learning details of the kidnapping. Late Tuesday night county police had been unable to get into "direct" communication with Dutton, but proceeded with their investigation after hearing Knowles' report.

Clear Up Affair Today.

"The entire affair likely will be cleared up during Wednesday, and until we are in position to make the arrests we now contemplate we cannot divulge our information," Lieutenant Oliver, in charge of the investigation, stated.

Dutton had been married twice, his first wife living in Carrollton, Ga., while the second resides near Eagan Park in a cotton mill settlement, it is said. He was divorced from his first wife nearly twenty years ago, it was learned.

FOUR ARE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

The injury of Mrs. P. L. Weeks, 653 Mycaine street, was caused, by a motorcycle at North Pryor street and Auburn avenue, about 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, was the first of four motor vehicle mishaps during the day which came near causing four deaths.

Others hurt were C. M. Copeland, 25, of 125 Matthews street, nine-year-old Dan Dismor, of 70 East 31st street, and Robert Stocks, 17, of 90 Grant street.

George Shy, alias Ed Carter, 19, of 152 Japha avenue, was sentenced to 90 days in the city stockade when he was unable to pay a fine of $30 and costs, assessed in recorder's court Tuesday after he had been found guilty of reckless driving for a second time. However, if Shy pays the fine before expiration of his sentence, he will be released.

Sentenced to Stockade.

The man was arrested several weeks ago on a reckless driving charge, and pressed on court charges, but failed to appear in court to stand trial. He was arrested last week for his second offense, and Tuesday he was sentenced to 90 days in the stockade for failure to appear in court after having been released on copy of $300 and costs.

Sixteen other drivers were fined during the day, fines aggregating $334. Seven were fined for violating traffic ordinances, five for speeding, and four for reckless driving. In addition to Shy, J. W. Shaw, 21, of 63 Dillon street, and Leroy Gaston, 21, of 215 Oak street, were assessed heavy fines. Shaw was fined $20 on a charge of reckless driving, and bound over to the state for operating an automobile while intoxicated, while Gaston was fined $50 for reckless driving.

Keeps Address Secret.

In writing his acceptance speech, Davis has consulted with very few political leaders as to what he should say, and has given no inkling of what it will contain. Not even Mrs. Davis, who is his companion in all his sports and social diversions, knows what her husband has written.

Seated in the Gibson studio, which overlooks a little inlet on the island of Long Key, Davis was seen to be looking at a big pad of yellow paper. Then he would call in a stenographer and dictate a few lines. He has not been in the studio since his stay here, nor has he told her the slightest line of the speech. Only once did he want to know how one of the planks in the platform should be interpreted.

Then he consulted Homer Cummings, chairman of the platform committee, and he was given the first draft of the speech. Davis expressed the opinion that the language of the plank was vague.

He has not discussed the phraseology or the ideas of his address at the dinner table, nor with his acting secretary. More than most addresses of such a character, this will be a "one-man speech."

LA FOLLETTE HITS SUGAR COMMISSION

The highest official channels of the government the final decision and report of the tariff commission, and that attempts have been made to intimidate and otherwise obstruct the action of that body," La Follette said in his statement.

The Wisconsin senator did not designate what he meant by the "highest official channels." Marvin denied the charges, and stated that La Follette's charge, and that there has been no delay in preparation of the report to the president that is due in any way to any activities on the part of representatives of either the domestic sugar producers or of the importers of Cuban sugar.

Marvin said: "The commission has proceeded as rapidly as possible with the investigation and preparation of the report as it was possible to do."

Harding Ordered Probe.

The investigation into the cost of production of sugar, which the report will cover, was ordered by President Harding as a result of the sudden jump in prices during January and February 1922, which was initiated by some at the time to high tariff rates, as well as speculation.

The report will be submitted to President Coolidge before he decides whether the tariff rates should be lowered. The public, however, will be more keenly interested in just what the report will show as to cost of production, which can be compared with the cost of sugar to the consumer. It is not likely, however, that any action which would follow publication of the report would come in time to give any comfort to householders who are using large quantities of sugar in canning.

La Follette declared that unless the report is made before September, the sugar interests will argue that the report is valueless, and that the public will be denied relief from the "present exorbitant import duties on sugar" for the current year.

Gives La Follette Issue.

The sugar question has been thrown into political waters as a result of La Follette's action. It will give his forces another issue, along with demands for cheaper bread and gasoline. The Wisconsin senator will not rest with the charge he has made. If he succeeds in getting the desired information from the commission, he will use that in his campaign.

Marvin said Tuesday that the law does not allow the results of such an investigation to be made public until the commission has examined the facts and made his decision, but he will lay the matter before the commission as to what information can be given La Follette.

The letter of La Follette to the commission and his public statement are expected to bring into the open the differences in the commission itself, which have been brewing under cover for many months, and which, when thrown into outline, may bring significant revelations of wider scope. For this reason, the meeting Friday, when La Follette's letter will be discussed, will be intensely interesting.

Factions in Commission.

The commission, composed of six members, is broken into two distinct factions, one headed by Chairman Marvin, the other by Vice Chairman Culberson. Recently, the two have been at odds on numerous questions which have been brought in for settlement. One of the most significant was the dispute over whether H. H. Glassie, a member of the commission, should sit in the sugar investigation. Culberson objected to Glassie's participation on the ground that the latter's wife was interested in sugar production. Quite an internal row developed. Finally, the matter was carried to congress and Glassie was barred from participation by congressional action. Marvin upheld Glassie in his right to take part.

SALESMAN FREED IN DISAPPEARANCE OF MACON WOMAN

Tampa, Fla., July 29.—R. L. Dickson, local automobile salesman, held in jail in connection with the disappearance of Mrs. W. I. Dickson, here Friday of Macon, Ga., his sister-in-law, was released tonight when police learned that Mrs. Dickson left the city Friday morning on a motor bus. It was said she boarded a bus bound for Lakeland after making inquiries regarding no routes which would return her to Macon.

Before making up her mind to leave, the police said they learned, she conferred with a physician who advised her to return to her home.

Dickson reported the disappearance of the woman, and aided in the city-wide search for her. He was arrested Thursday morning, though the police admitted they had no specific charge to place against him.

Mrs. Dickson, according to relatives, was recently released from the Georgia asylum for insane and was brought here by her brother-in-law last Thursday night.

train. He will leave the island by bus for Camden and motor to Rockland from there. At Woolwich, on the east bank of the Kennebec river, he will be met by a committee of his way home Wednesday night, and escorted across the river to Bath, where there will be another reception.

The Gibson and Davis families had ten Wednesday afternoon on Ensign island, about three miles in Penobscot bay from here.

The candidates for an appointment Wednesday, Robert H. Jackson, national committeeman from New Hampshire, will see him just before he leaves.

La Follette. So is David J. Lewis, another member of the commission, who has sided with Culberson in the internal disputes. La Follette said that the sugar interests will exert all their influence to prevent the reappearance in September of Lewis, who the senator says, has related pressure from the "sugar lobby."

Culberson Silent.

Significantly, Culberson would say nothing Tuesday regarding the situation. Regarding reports that he had been mentioned, he said he had heard them, but that nothing had been said to him regarding such an appointment.

Some months ago the Fair Tariff league issued a statement in which it charged that Marvin and William Burgess, another member of the commission who has sided with Marvin, engaged in lobbying activities before becoming members of the commission, the former for wool interests, the latter for pottery concerns.

MRS. BULLARD WILL FACE COURT TODAY

Ridge circuit, called the Edwards case today, but Edwards' father, who is considered a material witness, failed to appear. Judge Blair ordered him to appear at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. Edwards' attorneys stated that the witness was ill and could not be in court today.

Bullard was given his final decree of divorce i. Cobb superior court last Thursday. The divorce was not contested. Charges that his wife and Edwards had had a plot to get him out of the way were launched and Mrs. Bullard faced a jury on charges of complicity in the assault following the conviction of Edwards. There was a mistrial, and her case will go to a jury again this term, court officials say.

Witnesses at the Edwards trial declared that Bullard's arms were badly torn by a load from a shotgun as he stepped in his bed. Mrs. Bullard and Edwards were charged with entering a love-plot to get rid of Bullard. The charges against both Mrs. Bullard and Edwards have grown out of the shooting.

were married, according to Peggy, when she began to have to pay all the count's personal bills as well as her own.

It reached its climax Monday afternoon, she further insists, when Count Morner struck her as they rode in a taxicab.

The blow in the taxicab resulted from her refusal to provide the "man in a million" with more funds to pay bills and buy more clothes, Peggy explains.

Hits Fortune Hunters.

After the private nuptials at Atlantic City, it may be recalled, Count Morner graciously consented to being interviewed and took the occasion to deliver an inspiring blast against titled European fortune hunters. The count made clear his belief that these persons disgraced the whole nobility and that they ought to be abolished, or suffer something equally drastic.

Now Peggy Hopkins Joyce, who has flirted with various titles as well as millions, has her opinion on that subject.

"I am not a foolish American debutante, willing to keep a man for his title," she says. "I could have married other titles."

"I knew Count Morner had no money when I married him, but I thought I loved him and I was willing to support myself because I thought I loved

Atlantans To Ask Damage in Suits Against Sheriff

Douglasville, Ga., July 29.—(Special.)—Sheriff A. S. Baggett, of Douglas county, and his bondsmen will be made defendants in actions to be filed immediately asking damages for alleged injury and humiliation to Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Allen, of Atlanta, as an outgrowth of the search of their automobile Sunday, and the slapping of the face of Mrs. Allen by the officer, after the search, according to R. N. Dillard, attorney of Atlanta. Mr. Dillard was here and at Villa Rica today working on evidence in the interest of his clients. Mr. and Mrs. Allen will file separate suits.

The Allen car was halted and searched for liquor in a most abrupt manner Sunday just as the party was passing through the outskirts of Douglasville en route to Atlanta, according to Allen, who states also that his machine was damaged when Baggett and a civilian backed into it after it was stopped. Allen says that the sheriff drove his car across the road so suddenly that he was forced to run into a yard to prevent a collision.

No Rum Found.

Both Sheriff Baggett and Allen agree that no rum was found in the car, but Sheriff Baggett contends that the car answered the description he had of a liquor-laden car heading out of Villa Rica towards Douglasville.

Allen says that he was stopped, his car rammed and occupants were ordered out of his car. He refused to obey because he had no way of knowing whether Baggett and his companions were highwaymen, he says. He was then told at the point of a pistol in the hands of the civilian to get out. He complied and then it was that Baggett and his companion told him that they wished to search his car for rum and that Baggett was an officer. Allen says that he resented being treated in that way, and remonstrated. The search was made.

Mrs. Allen Slapped.

According to the report, Mrs. Allen had become nervous at the treatment accorded her husband and herself, and remonstrated. Baggett says he slapped her face when she abused him, and that he would "do it again under the circumstances."

J. E. Hutcheson, local attorney, has been retained to assist the Atlanta firm of Burruss & Dillard in the prosecution of the case. The amount which is sought by the Allens was not definitely decided tonight.

When Sheriff Baggett was told of the impending action, he said that his first statement would hold and that he had no further comment to make. He said that he would fight the action, contending that he was acting in the scope of his duty and that he did not transgress his authority. He said that he hit Mrs. Allen to defend himself before members of his family, who were seated on the front porch of the house near the scene of the search.

BEAUTY TOURNEY JUDGES CONSIDERED

"Every entrant has a fair and equal chance to win, and the judges will be publicly urged to select the prettiest girl in the list of applicants for the post of 'Miss Atlanta.'"

Charm to Count.

"In view of the fact that numerous questions to this end have been asked, the management of the tournament further desires that it be understood that ability to swim and dive has absolutely no bearing on the tournament. This is a beauty tournament purely and simply, and entrants will be judged solely on a basis of personal charm of face and figure."

Gifts Nos. 15 and 16 were announced for "Miss Atlanta" Tuesday in the form of a handsome shaker sweater and a bathing cap to be given by E. H. Jordan, southern sales manager of the Bradley Knitting company.

"The Bradley Knitting company wants to do its share toward outfitting 'Miss Atlanta' in order that she may bring back the bacon to Atlanta," said Mr. Jordan, whose new offices are at 408 Walton building. "We will ask the winner to select from our line of swimming goods a popular shaker sweater with 'Miss Atlanta' lettered on it, and her choice of the Bradley swimming caps."

Other New Gifts.

Other gifts already announced include magnificent gowns from Martin Amorous, Jr., premiere style exponent of the south; shoes, hats, stockings, jewelry of all kinds, cosmetics and a host of other honors.

Interest remains at white heat among pretty girls of Atlanta, and the management of the tournament is desirous of enrolling every beauty in the

Leopold Suffers From Psychosis, States Alienist

Chicago, July 29.—Nathan Leopold, Jr., is a socially dangerous person, suffering from a psychosis, according to the report of Dr. William Healy, alienist of Boston, prepared for presentation at the Frank trial.

Dr. Healy, who will be a witness for the defense, says in his report that he can see no other conclusion possible but that Leopold is a thoroughly unbalanced individual on his mental life, really mentally diseased of the paranoiac or monomaniac type "which has produced so many criminals."

The report continues: "He has been generally unrecognized and continues to be unrecognized as mentally diseased but his ordinary behavior does not reveal his inner mental life and particularly his delusion about himself."

In the first part of his report, Dr. Healy says that a large number of standard tests, such as the Stanford-Binet Scale, the Kelly-Traube Language Scale, the Monroe Silent Reading Test, the Thurstone's Syllogisms Test A, and the Carnegie Institute twenty equivalent problems, Leopold not only came up to all normal requirements but was 100 per cent on many and only a shade off of that figure on one or two.

Makes Low Record.

"But most remarkable in contrast to his supernormal general intelligence," says the report, "was his record on pictorial completion test II, where perceptions and appreciations of some ordinary situations are pictorially represented and a choice appropriate filling in of ideas to fit situations called for. On this test he failed entirely to appreciate the gist of some of the represented situations and made a total record, that according to standard forms, is lower than that made by the upper 25 per cent of 10-year-old boys and is only equal to the median of 12-year-old boys."

"Thus his ability to mentally see through a practical situation with concrete issues, where words and argumentation are called for, is on a very low level, being almost within the limits of a mental defect for his important type of mental capacity."

In his summary, Dr. Healy says Leopold is absolutely lacking in most loyalties, but strongly demanding loyalty from others. It says he is entirely lacking of any normal expression showing sympathy, but is not cruel.

Courageous Mentally.

INDIGESTION HALTS TRIP OF DR. WORK

Asheville, N. C., July 29.—Dr. Hubert Work, secretary of the interior and member of the national committee, now in this section to select a national park in the southern Appalachian area, was unable to continue the trip from Highlands to this city, owing to an attack of indigestion, which he suffered at that place this morning. Other members of the party arrived here this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Reports from Highlands early tonight were to the effect that Dr. Work is not seriously ill, but decided that it would be best for him to spend the day and night resting. He is expected to motor to Asheville tomorrow and will go from here to Washington to attend Friday's cabinet meeting. Wednesday members of the committee will motor to Blowing Rock.

The committee came here from Georgia by way of Highlands and Brevard. They were met at the latter place by representatives of Western North Carolina, Inc., and citizens of the city.

RESCUE WORKERS TO AID PENNILESS MOTHERS OF CITY

In a statement made public Tuesday through Community Chest headquarters, Colonel Horace Burton, head of the American Rescue Workers' home for widowed mothers and orphan children, announced that there is no longer any reason why penniless mothers and children should beg for money or food on the streets of Atlanta.

A building has been set apart to care for such persons and is ample to accommodate penniless mothers and children in Atlanta, he said.

"We offer to all such women and their children," he said, "the necessities of life, food, shelter, needed medical care and clothing until more permanent provision can be made."

"The only stipulation we make is they must stay in the home and conduct themselves in an orderly manner."

endant, asserted there was no joke about it and struck the commedian's jaw. Then several policemen joined in beating up her employer, she said.

Rosetta then took the stand amid cheers. She said she and other members of her party were joking about being arrested when the policeman told her it was no joke. So she told him to "keep his remarks to himself."

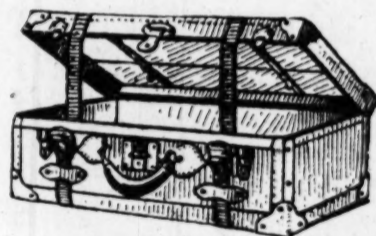

One policeman, she asserted, kicked her on the shins. Afterward, Miss Duncan related, the chief of police of Cocco told her she didn't want any publicity and "to wash off the blood and forget about it." This, she said, she refused to do.

When an assistant state's attorney went through the actions of the policeman as described by Miss Duncan, she started to cry, but desisted when the audience applauded. Court was adjourned until tomorrow.

Another of the oddities of the day is looking forward hopefully for time when the vaccination will become "good and sore."—Pittsburg Post.

DANGEROUS CRISIS IS OVER IN BRAZIL

Buenos Aires, July 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—While the remnants of the military forces which revolted at Sao Paulo July 5 were being pursued today into the interior of Brazil by federal troops, Governor da Campos, once more installed in his state capital, was taking account of the damage it suffered from the three weeks of bombardment, fire and pillage, and at Rio de Janeiro, President Bernardes was faced with the problem of effecting a solid restoration of the nation's disturbed unity.

"It is up to us to reorganize Brazil in a manner so that it will be able to repress once for all the possibilities of such rebellions through revision of our constitution, or confess the failure of our form of government," President Bernardes is quoted as declaring last night in replying to a committee of Brazilian senators who waited upon him with congratulations for the governmental victory.

Sedition Laws Weak.
The president said he looked upon the Sao Paulo movement, coming after the revolt of Rio a year ago, as evidence of the weakness of the laws of Brazil regarding the repression of sedition. The thirty millions of free-thinking Brazilians, he declared, could not be left a prey to a handful of discontented adventurers such as had tried to stab the nation in the back, supplanting the government while it was intensely bending its efforts to the reconstruction of the country.

The president has also to consider the question of dealing with foreign governments with reference to the damage suffered by the property of their nationals as well as the killing of foreigners during the revolt. Although estimates of the total damage are not yet available from official quarters, it is believed that in many millions of dollars and that the number of soldiers and civilians killed or wounded will reach many hundreds. According to reports not officially verified as yet, some of Sao Paulo's finest structures were reduced to ruins.

Fate of Leader.
The greatest interest centers in the fate of General Isidoro Lopes, leader of the revolt, who fled to the interior with his troops yesterday. For three weeks he ruled Sao Paulo as head of the "provisional government of the United States of Brazil," which, with the assistance, the rebels hoped, of the states of Parana, Santa Catalina, Rio Grande do Sul, Mato Grosso and Minas Geraes, was to have overthrown the Bernardes government in accordance with a plot conceived many months ago.

The rebel troops fled the city in two small columns, according to official reports, and news of their capture or dispersal by the government troops, which are in front as well as behind them, is expected soon. It is thought Lopes may try to find refuge in his home state of Rio Grande, where in 1893-1895 he was one of the ring leaders in the revolt against President Peixoto.

The censorship in Brazil is expected to continue until the country calms down from what is regarded here as the most dangerous crisis passed since the republic was established in 1889.

Hints on Balking Burglars Given By Young Bandit

Atlantic City, N. J., July 29.—Helpful household hints for the balking housewife was the topic of an impromptu talk by Morris Kramer, "Long Wolf" bandit, in the Atlantic City jail.

Gather round, girls, for when Morris tells you how to save your money from hold, bad burglars he knows whereof he speaks. At the Atlantic City jail, he said, he had robbed 47 private homes in this vicinity in the past three weeks for a total loot of $60,000. Thus far there are 29 complaints against him.

Called for Women Editors.
He is a dapper fellow with a sleek hair-cut and well-bottomed trousers. He issued a call for women's page editors, but police reporters came instead.

"I can tell women a few things about how to save their stuff," he began, regardless. "When the boys in the Norfolk, Va. reform school told me off to the fine points of this game they told me that housewives hide their money between clothing in the bureau drawers, or under the mattress in the bottom of the drawers. Burglars always look there first."

"The first place they look for house keys is under the 'Welcome' mat, over the lintel, under hall rugs and under flower boxes. It isn't often we have to use skeleton keys."

Make Things Easy.
"Women who leave signs on their doors telling where they've gone and how long they'll be gone make things considerably easier for burglars, too."

Then, just to be impartial, Morris gave a hint for young burglars. "Real, up-to-date burglars and their ilk don't use revolvers," he said proudly. "We can do much better without them. They only get you into trouble. I never used one, nor ever carried one."

$130 Dividend Is Return On One-Dollar Investment

A dividend of $130 on an investment of $1—How's that for a paying proposition?

Pretty good—we'll say it is. Why not get in on a good thing. Mr. Reader, while the getting's good? Constitution insurance is the answer—insurance that costs you practically nothing, but keeps you protected against the dreadful menace of swift death or slow demise.

Listen to this case:
Miss Louise Stovall, of 449 Central avenue, Atlanta, was injured in an automobile accident on March 13, 1924, as Pryor street and Trinity avenue. She was run over by a truck, from which accident she was totally disabled for thirteen weeks. Miss Stovall was the holder of a $1,000 Constitution Travel and Pedestrian accident insurance policy—for which she paid only $1 per year in addition to the regular subscription cost of her Daily and Sunday Constitution—and under the provisions of

He has been worshipful master of Lyerly lodge, No. 38, F. & A. M., for 27 years, which position still holds. He also was one of the organizers of the 7th district Masonic convention, 26 years ago, and has been one of the officers since.

Mr. Rose is one of the most prominent Masons in northwest Georgia.

MRS. FLEISCHMANN GRANTED DIVORCE IN FRENCH COURT

Paris, July 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—A divorce was granted to Mrs. Laura G. Hyland Hemmings, wife of Julius Fleischmann, former mayor of Cincinnati, on grounds of abandonment, today.

A fortnight ago Mr. Fleischmann, America's "great king," admitted that his wife was suing for divorce in the Paris courts. While the terms of the decree which he said at that time had been granted were not made known, and while Mr. Fleischmann refused to discuss them, it is understood that they included the settlement of $5,000,000 on Mrs. Fleischmann.

Dudley Field Malone, counsel for Fleischmann, said that Mr. and Mrs. Fleischmann had been separated for over a year, that they parted from each other with the friendliest feeling toward each other and that the only cause for divorce was incompatibility. He said that the financial settlement was made long before the couple discovered that incompatibility would disturb their happiness and that it was sufficient to make Mrs. Fleischmann an independently wealthy woman.

Mr. and Mrs. Fleischmann were married in 1920. But they had been married previously and divorced. At the time of his divorce from his first wife Mr. Fleischmann settled $2,000,000 upon her and a yearly income of $25,000. Mrs. Fleischmann's former husband was Louis Hemmings, a wealthy silk manufacturer.

GRAVE MONUMENT WARNS AGAINST RACE EQUALITY

Miami, Fla., July 29.—Overnight there appeared on the sidewalk section of the Miami business district a monument of the style used in cemeteries, but made of galvanized iron and covered with a message. On one side was this inscription in black: "On this spot a few years ago a white man was found who had been tarred and feathered because he preached social equality to negroes."

On the reverse side was the legend: "If you are a reckless negro or a white man who believes in social equality be advised Dade county don't need you."

The "monument" attracted a crowd of curiosity seekers, but none appeared who could or would give any idea as to its origin and occasion of its exhibition.

The incident of a few years ago referred to apparently was that of the tarring and feathering of Rev. P. S. Irwin, white minister of a church in Colored town, who left the city immediately afterward.

HUGHES AND LAWYERS REACH BERLIN SUNDAY

Berlin, July 29.—When Secretary Hughes, of the United States state department, arrives here Sunday, he will be accompanied by about 20 American lawyers of the American Bar association party, who are expected to carry on work in connection with the United States mixed claims commission here, which is adjusting claims against Germany growing out of war damages.

The lawyers represent individual American claimants. All of the claims are in the hands of the commission.

"IZZY" AND "MOE" SEIZE 500 CASES

New York, July 29.—Prohibition agents "Izzy" Einstein and "Moe" Smith today seized 500 cases of wine and liquor in an East 15th street garage. No arrests were made.

Her policy, she was paid the sum of $130 on June 30.

This famous policy, which costs only $1 per year, provides $1,000 protection against death in certain accidents, varying sums for injuries, and it is the only policy offered by a newspaper in Georgia paying as much as $10 per week for disability on a pedestrian accident.

Another great protective offer made by The Constitution is its $500 Group Reader Life Insurance policy—an only straight life policy offered by an Atlanta newspaper. It costs only 15 or 20 cents per week (depending on the risk involved) in addition to the regular Constitution subscription rates, and it remains in force as long as payments on both the policy and the Constitution subscription are maintained.

You could do no greater service to your loved ones than by protecting yourself under both these unparalleled opportunities. Phone, write or call The Constitution's insurance department for full details.

NEGROES IN NORTH ARE WITHOUT JOBS

Albany, Ga., July 29.—(Special.)—So pronounced has become the condition of unemployment in the middle west and so overrun have some of the cities in that section become by jobless negroes from the south, that the city government of East St. Louis, Ill., has through its mayor and city council, passed a resolution calling attention to this condition. A copy of the resolution, signed by Mayor M. M. Stephens, of the Illinois city, has been forwarded to Mayor W. M. Legg of Albany, while other copies have been widely distributed throughout the south.

Attached to the copy of the resolution Mayor Legg received was a reprint story from The East St. Louis Daily Journal, which quoted statistics of the U. S. employment service to show that there are now 2,000 unemployed persons in East St. Louis alone. The newspaper story also stated that similar conditions prevail in other cities in that section. Shutting down mining operations and curtailing activities in the steel industry are described as principal causes of the inactivity, though it is added that there is no demand for farm labor and building trades labor.

The resolution passed by the East St. Louis city council and forwarded to Mayor Legg follows:
Whereas, it is reported that in the southern states, especially in the large negro settlements, that statements have been made and circulated to the effect that there is a demand for labor in the north, and at high wages, and in some cases inducing the negro population, which has caused a large migration of negroes from the south to the north; and

Whereas, the city of East St. Louis has and is receiving negroes, and a large number of laborers are now out of employment and appealing for work, with no demand for labor of any kind in this vicinity; and

Whereas, the exodus of the negro population of the south continues it will cause great suffering and want during the remainder of this year, especially during the winter months; therefore,

Be it resolved, that copies of the resolution be printed and distributed through the southern states to the effect that former misrepresentations that have been made to the south have caused the exodus of negroes.

(Signed) M. M. STEPHENS, Mayor.

NEGRO STILL SOUGHT FOR DEATH OF YOUTH

Thomaston, Ga., July 29.—(Special.)—Police tonight continued the search for Sam Spence, negro, who late Monday night ran over and killed Shelby Pitts, 12, with a speeding lumber truck, said to have been taken from Cecil McGee, of Chiple, without permission. The truck was wrecked as the negro abandoned it and fled after the accident.

Young Pitts was a worker in peach orchards here. Funeral services and interment were held here. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pitts, and a brother, all of Thomaston.

1 SLAIN, 1 TAILED IN ROW OVER COWS

Nashville, Ga., July 29.—Malcolm Webb, 35, is dead and Warren Overstreet, 60, is in the Berrien county jail charged with murder as the result of an altercation over the pasturing of cows. The shooting took place yesterday 10 miles west of this city, but was learned of here only this morning.

Webb was killed instantly. Sheriff Nix said he was unarmed except for a rusty pocket knife which had not been opened recently. Both men had families.

JIMMIE MOATS, 80, CONFEDERATE VET, DIES AT UNION CITY

Union City, Ga., July 29.—(Special.)—Jimmie Moats, 80, Confederate veteran, died at the home of his son here this afternoon after an illness of several months.

Mr. Moats was a member of the thirtieth Georgia regiment under Captain Redwine, and made an excellent soldier until wounded a few months before the surrender.

He is survived by two sons, W. E. of Fairburn, and O. J. Moats, of Union City, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Latimer, of Fairburn.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock church at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Rev. M. D. Collins, of Fairburn, officiating. Interment will be at the church cemetery. W. M. Holsenbach in charge.

ONE WOMAN SLAIN, MOTHER AND BABE HURT IN CRASHES

Columbus, Ga., July 29.—One woman is dead and two persons are injured as the result of automobile accidents here today. Mrs. Camille Crouch, 61, died at the City hospital two hours after she was struck and hurled to the ground by an automobile operated by a negro. The woman was walking to her home in Phenix City, Ala., across the Chattahoochee river bridge, when she was struck. The driver is in jail facing a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Mrs. F. C. Smith and her fifteen-month-old child were injured when the mother lost control of an automobile she was driving, as the machine rounded a corner.

FLORIDA MAN FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL ROOM

Valdosta, Ga., July 29.—Victor B. Walker, St. Petersburg, Fla., died at a local hotel late last night. He was about 40, and was on his way home, having stopped here for the night.

"Death was said to have been due to heart trouble, superinduced by acute indigestion. Mr. Walker, who had relatives in Pennsylvania, had been visiting in North Carolina with his wife, who did not accompany him on his motor tour to Florida."

AMBASSADOR CROWDER RETURNS TO HAVANA

Havana, Cuba, July 29.—American Ambassador Crowder returned today on the steamer Siboney from his leave in the United States. He was greeted at the docks by officials of the embassy, Cuban officials and American business men.

That truck drivers let their engines run, burning up employers' gasoline, while delivering a three or four-ton load of coal or building material

3 Negroes Given 1-Year Sentences At Murder Trial

Constitution Bureau, Masonic Temple Annex, Phone 1060.

Rome, Ga., July 29.—(Special.)—Z. D. Washington, Mose Heath and Henry Brown, negroes, charged with the murder of Andrew Barner, negro boy, who was shot and thrown into Big Cedar creek, near Cave Spring, in April, have been sentenced to serve one year each in the chain gang.

McKinley Brown, negro, was convicted of the murder of Barner earlier in the week and drew a life term. Henry Brown was tried for murder, but was found not guilty and indicted as an accessory, as were the other two negroes.

Bridge Contract Let.

Rome, Ga., July 29.—(Special.)—The contract to build a bridge over Big Cedar creek, on the Rome-Cave Spring road, was awarded to the Mitchell-Lloyd company, at a gross figure of $15,000. It was stated that the contract calls for setting the bridge so as to eliminate the dangerous curve on both sides of the bridge, which has caused so many accidents. Work will begin immediately.

Warsaw Owners Open Court Fight Against Dipping

Savannah, Ga., July 29.—A petition for injunction was filed in the superior court early this afternoon by Joseph Henry and William L. Parsons, owners of Warsaw island, against the board of county commissioners and ex-officio judge; M. W. Dixon, the sheriff; James J. Vane, inspector serving under Dr. Peter Bahnsen, the state veterinarian, and Eulie Dancy, an inspector of Chatham county, to prevent the landing of the defendants on the island property and proceeding with the construction of vats preparatory to beginning the dipping of several hundred head of wild cattle on the Parsons' property.

Judge William Meldrum issued a temporary restraining order enjoining the defendants proceeding further with preparations to land on Warsaw and signed a rule returnable on Thursday morning why the injunction should not issue as prayed.

ALLEGED CON MEN CAUGHT IN CANADA FIGHT EXTRADITION

Montreal, July 29.—Barney Goldstein and George Watson, each with many aliases, were arraigned in extradition court today on charges of having defrauded American citizens of large sums at Florida winter resorts.

Both pleaded not guilty and were sent to jail to wait arrival of extradition papers. Goldstein is accused of having defrauded Marcus H. Blumenthal of $19,650 at St. Augustine, Fla., in January, 1922.

Watson is charged with having obtained $60,000 in a similar manner from Simon Tuch, at Jacksonville, Fla.

Both prisoners, who were arrested last week in the course of a round-up of a game of alleged international wire tapping, announced they would fight extradition.

ARMY WILL HONOR GOWDY AT REVIEW AT POLO FIELD

New York, N. Y., July 29.—(Special.)—August 5 will be known as Gowdy day at the Polo grounds. Hank Gowdy will be officially informed of the fact that the baseball field at the athletic center of the infantry school, Fort Belvoir, Ga., has been named after him on that day. Appropriate ceremonies, including a review of regular army infantry by the veteran catcher, will attend the notification, which will be delivered by General Brian H. Wells, commandant of the school.

When the subject of a name for the field was discussed some time ago it was voted unanimously to christen it for the first major league player to enlist in the army in the world war.

SAVANNAHANS SHIP FIGS TO NEW YORK

Savannah, Ga., July 29.—The first shipment of fresh figs shipped from Savannah to any considerable distance so far as is known was sent Monday by Mrs. H. L. Backus, home demonstration agent, and Gratz Dent, county agent, to New York.

This shipment is in the nature of an experiment to determine whether locally-grown figs can be shipped to markets in other sections of the country with success. The figs were grown on the property of George Garman, Judge Arthur W. Solomon and G. W. Willy, at Isle of Hope, and R. A. Onard, at Beaulieu. They were grown extensively locally in private orchards.

AIR MAIL CARRIERS HALTED AT RANTOUL

Nashville, Tenn., July 29.—Captain Herbert Fox and Lieutenant V. J. Mealy, of the 160th Aero Squadron, who piloted the first airplane load of mail across the Mason and Dixon line from Nashville to Chicago this morning, were halted at Rantoul, Ill., 85 miles south of Chicago on the return trip to Nashville this afternoon. The cause of the delay was not explained in the brief telegram received from the aviators this afternoon by Major J. Bennett, Jr., commanding the squadron. Bad weather was the surmise of Major Bennett.

The aviators are expected to leave Rantoul early tomorrow and to reach here before the opening of business at 8 a. m.

COOLIDGE BUSY WRITING SPEECH

Washington, July 29.—President Coolidge spent a busy day in his office today, devoted primarily to intensive work on the actual writing of his speech of acceptance for the official notification of his nomination by the Cleveland convention.

There were many callers at the white house, all bearing optimistic reports on the campaign, but Mr. Coolidge saw only a few, meeting with the cabinet this morning and conferring with some government officials on business before devoting the remainder of the day to his address.

Among reports reaching the white house today was one brought by Senator Harrell, of Oklahoma, that a Ku Klux Klan fight was impending in the republican senatorial campaign in that state. Opinion was expressed by the senator, however, that the national ticket would be little affected by a Klan fight.

"The Klan is the baby of the democracy," he declared, adding that a Klan row was prevailing in the democratic fight for the senate nomination in Oklahoma with former Governor Walton leading the anti-Klan forces.

Senator Harrell predicted Mr. Coolidge would hold the 25,000 majority polled by President Harding in Oklahoma in 1920, while Senator La Follette would get only the normal socialist vote, which, he said, would amount to about 25,000 of the 500,000 votes in the state.

Representative Bacon, republican, New York, painted a bright picture of conditions in the east in a visit at the white house.

Eugene V. Debs Defends Support Of La Follette

Chicago, July 29.—Eugene V. Debs, in a letter made public tonight, replied to the attack made by Wm. F. Foster, workers' party nominee for the presidency, on Debs' intention to support the candidacy of Robert M. La Follette.

Debs' letter states "he is unable to understand why you (Foster) should conclude that it (Debs) endorsement of the Cleveland progressive convention) 'will come as a shock to thousands of workers'."

"I can readily understand," the letter continues, "why it would have suited you better had the socialist party ended its career at Cleveland and disappeared from the scene, or remained discredited to cut as sorry and discreditable a figure as the communist party will in the campaign this year."

Debs declares that the communists were prepared to endorse La Follette at St. Paul and would have done so "had not La Follette publicly denounced them."

In conclusion the letter says: "You may be right in your criticism. . . . and I may be wrong. As I have often been before. Having no vaticans in Moscow to guide me I must follow the light I have, and this I have done in the present instance."

FIVE ARE DROWNED WHEN AXLE BREAKS

Billings, Mont., July 29.—Five persons were drowned in the Shoshoni reservoir near Cody, Wyoming, yesterday afternoon, when a broken front axle sent the automobile in which they were riding hurtling over a 40-foot embankment into the water.

Did he have a right to suspect her?

DUNBAR was in a terrible state of mind. He was worried sick about his wife. He was madly in love with her and she had been acting very strangely during the past several months.

The thing that troubled him most was that she now responded very reluctantly to his affectionate advances. She wouldn't even let him kiss her. The whole state of affairs was driving him mad. He suspected everything. And, yet, he alone was to blame.

That's the insidious thing about halitosis (unpleasant breath). You, yourself, rarely know when you have it. And not only closest friends but wives and husbands dodge this one subject.

Sometimes, of course, halitosis comes from some deep-seated organic disorder that requires professional advice. But usually—and fortunately—halitosis is only a local condition that yields to the regular use of Listerine as a mouth wash and gargle. It is an interesting thing that this well-known antiseptic that has been in use for years for surgical dressings, possesses these unusual properties as a breath deodorant.

It halts food fermentation in the mouth and leaves the breath sweet, fresh and clean. Not by substituting some other odor but by really removing the old one. The Listerine odor itself quickly disappears. So the systematic use of Listerine puts you on the safe and polite side.

Your druggist will supply you with Listerine. He sells lots of it. It has dozens of different uses as a safe antiseptic and has been trusted as such for a half a century. Read the interesting little booklet that comes with every bottle.—Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, Saint Louis, U. S. A.

FRACTURED SPINE FATAL TO YOUTH

Frank Pearson, 20, of 233 Richard street, whose spine was fractured Monday night in a fall from a trapeze bar on the public playgrounds near Washington street and Trinity avenue, died early Tuesday night after heroic efforts of Grady hospital physicians to save his life.

While no official report of the accident has been filed with the police, it is reported Young Pearson was in the act of turning a "flip" when his hold on the bar slipped, causing him to fall to the ground on his neck.

His body was removed from the hospital to the chapel of Harry G. Poole. Funeral arrangements have not been completed, pending instructions of out-of-town relatives of the young man.

He is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Pearson; two sisters, Mrs. Wesley Valentine, of Martinsville, Va., and Miss Lenore Pearson, of Atlanta, and a brother, J. C. Pearson.

demeanor when in the presence of observers. Several times today they seemed studiously to avoid each other's glances. That was when they heard read for the first time in their confessions their counter-accusations of having stabbed young Franks with a chisel and stifled the breath from his body. Three times today this circumstance was recited while their confessions and conversations were being put into the record and each time the boys sat immovable, staring straight ahead and giving no intimation of the answer to this unsolved riddle.

Just as soon as Mr. Crowe has put a record of Leob's emotion before the judge, the defense will begin.

Immediately the atmosphere is expected to change from a recital of sordid facts to a discussion of pathological conditions bearing upon the mentality, the degree of the defendants' responsibility and the fine shading of psychological phenomena by which the defense hopes to win the mitigation of punishment, which they announced as their object the day the boys pleaded guilty.

The other announced mitigating circumstance, the youth of the defendants, will be brought into the case later.

A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's hospital, Washington, D. C., would be his first witness and that the other defense experts on mental and juvenile delinquency would probably follow. Dr. White has a reputation as a specialist in the mechanism of character formation.

"If the defense attempts to show that these boys are insane, I will ask Judge Caverly to empanel a jury to determine that fact," said Mr. Crowe, revealing the same attitude as that which he took in court July 21, when the plea of guilty went entered. He made his statement then when he tried without success to get Mr. Bachrach to say whether the plea was being made for sane or insane persons.

It is thought that Mr. Crowe will challenge the defense testimony at every opportunity and this course also may result in a change in the character of proceedings.

Little Cross-Examination.

Throughout the state's presentation of evidence the defense has, with one notable exception, made almost no cross-examination. James J. Gortland, a detective sergeant, drew fire when he quoted Leob as saying he hoped to escape by "pleading insanity before a friendly judge."

Except for this, however, the defense has allowed fact after fact to go into the record unchallenged. Mr. Crowe presented his case by reading into the record for half an hour from the stenographic transcript of the confession which the boys had made up to them.

Once today Mr. Bachrach suggested that this line of testimony be copied into the record and that the boys be read to it. Mr. Crowe when this proposal came, but the latter said he preferred to have the reading continued.

It lasted all day, in fact, when court adjourned Monday, the state's attorney thought that about two hours of cross-examination. It was not until it turned out the voluminous "question and answer" record took nearly twice that time.

It was a three-fold tale that failed to hold the attention of the court and Judge Caverly stated frankly that he had not followed it as he would depend upon study in solitude to inform himself upon the confession records.

He asked and was promised a copy of the documents for his private perusal.

Despite his lack of freshness in the evidence, the monotonous reading hour after hour attracted an unusual warm of spectators to the criminal court building. Once the morning session was halted while the bailiffs cleared from a corner when the pack of onlookers gathered around the defendants, who were being led by the guards.

The chief deputy was rebuked in open court for allowing this over-crowding before the afternoon session he saw to it that those who could not find seats were sent from the room. The corridors also were cleared and a dozen spectators who had herded to the floor below where scores of them stood for a long time before a few seats would be vacated.

They were doomed to wait in vain for a seat was given up once it had been gained.

Judge Caverly was approached by defense attorneys today regarding publication in the morning papers of reports by defense attorneys. He told them he could do nothing about it, and assured them he had not read the papers.

Position of State.

If the question of sanity or mental capacity is raised, the state's attorney said, it would be the duty of the court automatically to set aside the plea of guilty entered by the two college youths still in their teens and call a jury into the box to determine the issue.

"The law is conclusive, on the point that an insane man cannot enter a plea of guilty," Mr. Crowe said in referring to the "plea of insanity" which the boys had made up to them. "If there is any attempt to raise the issue of insanity I will insist that a jury be called at once."

"There is no such thing in the law as distinguishing whether the man is 25 per cent or 30 per cent normal. He is either sane and responsible under the law or he is insane."

"The only provision in the law is that of mitigating circumstances. By that is meant if the deceased indicated he was going to attack the defendant or there was some little provocation for the murder, or some sort of similar fact."

Must Hear All Evidence.

"Mitigating circumstances mean the acts surrounding the crime and not the degree of mental capacity of the defendant or the measuring of his mental responsibility with a yardstick. The only way a court can tell the punishment to be meted out is by hearing all the facts and that is why I have introduced all of my witnesses. I contend there are no mitigating circumstances and that the defendants should be hanged."

"If the defense attempts to put on any alibiist to give medical testimony relative to the mental condition or capacity of the defendants, I will object to the introduction of such testimony. The court has no power under the law to first decide the sanity or the insanity of the defendants and then afterwards the proper punishment to be inflicted."

Should the defense tomorrow attempt to introduce the testimony of its alibiist, whom it has indicated it will attempt to place on the stand, it might mean that he proceedings of the past week, together with the plea of guilty of the two youths, would be declared annulled and a jury called. In this event the state would be compelled to introduce all its evidence again.

Youths Unaffected.

The confessions of the defendants, used as the rock of the state's "mountain of evidence" occupied all of today's session and the youths sat in the court and hours listening to the reading of their statements of the murder of their neighbor's son, but apparently were unaffected by the ordeal.

Back in their cells at the county jail, Leob said:
"The reading of the confessions is not particularly interesting, as both of us have been over all of that so often. In fact, most of the proceeding is growing rather tiresome. Occasionally our mind is excited when some witness testifies we said something which we never said, but otherwise it is slightly dull."

Leob, who closed his eyes and appeared to be nearly asleep during a part of today's session, agreed that he found little of interest since the reading of the confession in court had worn off.

Leob's Confession.

Leob's confession told in a few sentences about taking the boy's body from the automobile and pushing it face downward into the railroad culvert.

Leob, it was shown, remarked at the end of Leob's confession that Leob wrapped the chisel. He also disputed Leob's recollection that the idea of the crime was conceived in November, 1923, saying he had considered it was first discussed in March.

"Who hit Franks with the chisel?" Mr. Crowe, it was indicated, asked Leob.

"He did," was the reply as read from the stenographic record.

The one week alibi was described as the stenographer continued reading, and quoted Leob as directing his conversation directly to Leob.

"I got to get you out, which I think is more than you would have done for me," Leob was quoted, "because I thought if the worse came to the worse you would admit what you had done."

Leob objected, saying to Leob, according to the record:

"You are trying to get out of it yourself," and claimed all Leob's objections as lies.

The Leob confession concluded with the statement of both boys that they had been treated fairly.

Leob's Statement.

Leob's statement was started after Mr. Crowe had explained to whom and when it was made. Assistant State's Attorney Shabaro was sent to the witness chair to relieve Allen.

Leob was quoted as having said that the kidnapping and slaying was planned by Leob, who had promised it would result in "a great deal of excitement and their obtaining quite a sum of money."

The method of obtaining the death of the Franks home had been described, Leob being quoted as saying that Leob posed as "Ballard" and that he posed as "Lewis Mann" and sponsored "Ballard," answering a public pay station telephone in a delicatessen store when the automobile company telephoned there for reference on "Ballard's" honesty.

"I purchased both the chisel and rope myself alone," Leob was quoted, "and I would have been ready to provide the money through a loan to keep schools open, without an emergency tax, but that he believed the tax would be levied. He decided to be given to the city in case it proved to be the only way out. He also urged passage of the amendment authorizing the present school board of education."

Wrote Ransom Letter.

Leob said that Leob wrote the ransom demand letter, using an Underwood portable typewriter, but that the note was composed jointly. All the letters and telephone calls to the Franks home had been drafted roughly several days ahead of time, Leob was quoted, and all that remained the day of the kidnapping was to put them in condition for handing.

"The acid, rope and chisel were placed in the rented car and the car was driven to a park and they were ready to go to the Harvard school to reconnoiter for a victim."

Leob, who had listened closely to the Franks confession was being read, gave away to the drowsy haze of the courtroom when Leob's statement was being read. His eyes began to sink he roused himself.

Leob was quoted as saying that Leob came down a street opposite the school and saw a car which was watching for a victim, and explained the escape of Johnny Levinson, who testified yesterday, by saying that Leob, who had been marked as a possible victim, went down an alley with some other boys.

Encouraged Franks.
After having missed Levinson and the others marked for possible death, Leob was quoted as saying he drove the car until they encountered Bobby Franks.

After Bobby was enticed into the automobile Leob was quoted: "After the boy got in the car Leob struck him with the chisel, pulling him into the back seat, choking him and thrusting some of the rags down his throat. After it was seen that the boy was unconscious, Leob climbed over into the front seat and covered the boy up with a blanket which Leob had been watching the boy from the back seat."

Leob was quoted as saying that with the body in their automobile they drove about waiting for the proper time to dispose of it and during their ride, while the body lay in the car, they passed a "hot-dog" stand, where Leob purchased two sandwiches and two bottles of soda water.

The scheme for exterminating the boy originated with Leob, Leob was quoted, but that was found unnecessary for the boy was quite dead when he was driven into which Leob was quoted as saying that when the acid intended to disfigure his face was poured there was no tremor and by that means also "we knew he was dead."

Defense Counsel.

Jacob and Allan Leob, Nathan Leob, Sr., and his elder son and Attorney Darrow and Bachrach held an earnest whispered conference in the corridor during a brief recess. It continued a quarter of an hour, the reading of Leob's confession having resumed before they returned to court.

The story was taken up through the telephone calls to Franks' father and the throwing away of the chisel the day after the crime in Atlanta is Leob's account of the attempt to wash blood stains off the death car talked with Leob's. So did his account of the chisel and a letter to Mr. Franks by sticking it on a "keep the city clean" box. This failed because the stickers would not adhere to the metal box.

Leob, the reading said, acknowledged it was he who placed another ransom letter in the telegram rack of a Pullman car.

"I wore glasses to disguise myself," his statement said.

At this time, according to Leob's version, Leob was telephoning Mr. Franks to go to a certain drug store. They knew then the body had been identified, but not until they had twice checked up by telephone and learned Mr. Franks had not gone to the drug store did they "realize that further attempts to get the money would result in failure."

The disposal of the typewriter was next described and the confession ended: "I offer no excuse, but neither the idea nor act would have occurred to me if it had not been for the suggestion of Nathan Leob."

Leob's objections, the record showed, after Leob's confession had been completed. They dealt with minor instances mostly, the chief being Leob's question as to the time the kidnapping and slaying was planned, insisting that "instead of 'two months,' as Leob had stated, it was several months."

Leob concluded his objections with the statement that the crime was Leob's idea and an insanity that Leob had killed the Franks boy.

The confession ended with the quoted statement that it was made of Leob's own volition and that he had not been threatened nor intimidated.

When Mr. Shabaro concluded reading, Mr. Crowe moved for an adjournment, which was granted his promise to rest tomorrow after five minutes' testimony from one more witness.

SCHOOL TAX PLAN LOSES IN COMMITTEE

other things, the following important committee report was made:

Authorizing a popular referendum on the question of abolishing the present board of education and creating a new board to be organized January 1, 1926, which will be elected by city council, and expenditures of which will be subject to approval of mayor and general council.

Authorizing city council to establish a pay ward at Grady hospital in which fees can be charged for services at present the charter and ordinances governing the hospital forbid acceptance of any fee for any service.

Authorizing three small parcels of land, including Morningside on the north side, a tract near Meador Goldsmith school on the west side, and the Carl Dolvin residential development of 45 acres on the southeast side.

Consolidation Amendment Later.
Another amendment to empower city council and the mayor to consolidate various city departments and needs of departments is to be considered later.

At the public hearing held prior to the executive session of the committee at which the vote was taken, Mayor Walter A. Sims, Alderman J. R. Bachman, Councilman William E.

Saunders. Councilman Harry York

and Attorney Harry A. Etheridge urged the passage of the amendment that the tax referendum be permitted, while Mr. L. Throver, Mr. George M. O'Beir and E. M. Horne urged that the referendum not be permitted.

Mayor Sims declared the people of Atlanta had voted in favor of the charter giving the present school board authority to spend its money as it wished and had elected the members of the present school board. The popularly elected members had exercised their legal right in such a way that a deficit had occurred, largely because current revenues had been diverted to build school houses and new schools were threatened with closure before the end of the year. The people, he asserted, have the right to say by their votes whether they will provide enough money to insure schools remaining open.

Still Hopes for Loan.
The mayor declared that he still hoped to obtain a loan to provide the money through a loan to keep schools open, without an emergency tax, but that he believed the tax would be levied. He decided to be given to the city in case it proved to be the only way out. He also urged passage of the amendment authorizing the present school board of education.

Attorney Etheridge denied claims made that Atlanta property is overvalued, asserting that many cases have more than doubled in the last year and that property, especially business property, is only beginning to bear its proper share of the tax burden. He declared that the school board against charges of extravagance.

Councilman Saunders, chairman of the charter revision committee of council, which was designated by council as a "steering committee" for Atlanta charter amendments, urged the people be allowed to be the arbiters of the fate of Atlanta's schools.

Miss Bessie Kempton, leading the opposition, drew the attention that the referendum would be at a general election in which negroes would not own property and vote, and Councilman Saunders declared in reply that neither the council of Atlanta nor school children were responsible for the law which created that condition.

Saunders Makes Charge.
Councilman Saunders also charged, in reply to a question from Miss Kempton, that the pledge of the 1920 tax amendment that "taxes should never be raised" was inserted by members of the general assembly and was not voted either by the people or by council. He declared the pledge meant that city council should not raise the tax rates, but that the power to raise taxes always would remain vested in the people of the city, regardless of pledges.

Alderman Bachman told the committee that the only question in issue was whether the people should have the right to decide whether schools should be kept open by taxation. He urged that the principles of true democracy demand that so important an issue be submitted to the people.

M. L. Throver, large real estate owner, made the opening speech against allowing the tax amendment, reviewing the increase in tax rate from $1.25 to $1.50 in 1922, the increase of $40,000,000 in tax assessments this year, and the issuance of $4,000,000 worth of bonds for schools in 1921. He charged that the board of education had exercised poor business judgment in expenditure of the money already voted into its keeping, and that the taxpayers of Atlanta are suffering from the spending of any more money.

"This high tax rate means higher rents and almost confiscation of all rewards from ownership of property," he declared. "It will make it impossible to do business profitably in Atlanta and will drive people away."

Cites Unoccupied Stores.
Mr. Horne submitted to the committee figures to the effect that 89 stores on Peachtree and West Peachtree streets are now lying idle and unrented, and that 15 1/2 per cent of all office space in Atlanta is unoccupied and offered for rent. A higher tax rate, he declared, will aggravate this condition by putting too heavy a burden on business.

Mrs. O'Beir declared that high taxes are driving capital and driving people away from Atlanta.

The committee limited arguments to 20 minutes from each side, which prevented a number of others from speaking.

Following announcement of the municipal government committee's adverse vote on the tax question, Representative Wood stated that when the Atlanta omnibus charter bill comes up for passage by the house in its present form, without provision for the tax referendum, he will introduce a substitute, including provision for the tax referendum and will urge its adoption despite the committee's report.

Councilman Saunders, chairman of the council charter committee, stated he had assurances from members of the DeKalb county delegation that they would join Representative Wood in support of the substitute bill. Saunders had secured the DeKalb county support after two of the Fulton members had first announced opposition to the tax referendum.

FRANCE PRESENTS COMPROMISE PLAN

fore the experts. But the American observers, who have an intimation of the conditions France expects to impose in view of her surrender of her jealously guarded theoretic right to act as she deems necessary if Germany does not live up to the Dawes plan, are not over-optimistic that a solution has been found.

French Ask 24 Hours.
When the experts hurriedly adjourned yesterday the French asked for 24 hours to perfect new proposals. But tonight these proposals still were in process of drafting, and the conference remained at a standstill.

The meeting of the experts considering the particular problem again has been postponed from 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, and will not be convened until the French indicate that their plan has been completed. Meanwhile, the other conventions have been unable to make much progress.

In the present stages of this deadlock conference the American attitude seems veering toward that of France, instead of that of Great Britain. Colonel Logan's proposal yesterday was followed by an expression of approval by the part of French delegates today; but the American suggestion that the reparations commission be called into the actual proceedings in the present negotiations roused immediate objection from the British.

Britain's First Objection.

It was the first time that Great Britain definitely had refused to fall in line with suggestions for a possible way out of the difficulty. As soon as the experts took up consideration of Colonel Logan's proposal Philip Snowden, Great Britain, said the British view was that the American suggestion meant the undoing of one of the most important tasks of the London conference upon the shoulders of the reparations commission and involved that body in a political question. Great Britain, Mr. Snowden declared, always had taken the stand that the reparations commission should not participate in political negotiations.

Despite the delays, another step toward realization of the Dawes recommendations will be taken tomorrow with the arrival of the reparations commission in London to negotiate an agreement with Germany covering points in the Dawes proposals which are outside the Versailles treaty. It is evident that the plenipotentiaries are not despairing of final success and will have the reparations commission here to deal with the German mission whenever the conference itself reaches an agreement.

The anticipation tonight was that the invitation for the Germans to send a delegation to the conference will be extended during the week-end.

SOLONS TO HEAR EVOLUTION THEORY IN SESSION TODAY

The bill introduced in the house of representatives, known as the "evolution" bill, which would bar any educational institution where the Darwinian theory of evolution is taught from receiving any state funds for its support, will be the subject of a special hearing before the house committee on education, to be held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in room 102, Kimball house.

Members of the faculties of Oglethorpe and Emory universities, as well as a number of pastors of Atlanta churches, have expressed a desire to be heard on the bill, it is stated.

ACTION TO CANCEL OIL LEASE BEGUN

Washington, July 29.—The government today developed another phase of its effort to clear up the oil lease situation.

Attorney General Stone issued orders for the filing of a suit to cancel an oil and gas prospecting lease, applying to a reservation created by executive order for the Navajo Indian reservation in southern Utah. If the government is successful in this suit, it will take similar action to invalidate more than 20 other such permits, 18 of which were granted by former Secretary Fall, of the interior department, and which apply to Indian lands in a dozen different western localities.

The suit ordered filed is against M. Harrison, the Mid-West Oil company, and the Southwest Oil company, and is based on an opinion recently submitted by the attorney general to the president, in which he held that Mr. Fall's construction of the oil leasing act of 1920 was in error when it applied the oil leasing provisions to reservations created by executive order. Mr. Fall's interpretation of the provision was given upon application for a lease by Mr. Harrison, said here to be an official of the Mid-West company, and under that construction of the law, the other permits also were granted.

Since the present attorney general placed a different construction on the law, the interior department has rejected the application for permits on such land.

Mr. Stone and Secretary Work, of the interior department, are in accord that no further leasing of the lands involved should be permitted until congress authorizes extraction of the oil or gas.

HOUSE SESSIONS MAY BE EXTENDED

A motion will be presented to the house today providing for a series of afternoon sessions for the purpose of passing upon the score or more appropriation bills which have been favorably reported by the appropriations committee. The motion is expected to come from the rules committee, and will be made early in Wednesday's session.

The house adjourned at 1 o'clock Tuesday, with the bill by Representative Mann, providing for the distillation of gasoline, under discussion. This will be the first order of business Wednesday morning, with the biennial sessions bill to follow. Under the order of business adopted, the next subject after biennial sessions is disposal of wills by the resolution by Representative Wimberly, of Toombs, to investigate the public service commission, discussion of which has been limited to 30 minutes, 15 minutes to each side.

The program adopted by the rules committee at its meeting Tuesday afternoon provides that appropriation bills only shall be considered at the bill.

The Art of Table Setting

The hostess may play up many ideas of her own in serving meals, thereby giving to them personality and individuality. There are many set rules which must be followed if one would be correct. The secret of refinement and elegance is simplicity. Elaborate decorations are never in good taste. See that the table does not appear over-crowded.

Silverware plays an important part in the serving of any meal. Always use the right piece for the special purpose required. The service plate and silver are placed one-half inch from the edge of the table. Place knives at the right with the sharp edge toward the service plate. Place forks to the left with the points of the tines upward. Place spoons to the right of the knives, inside of bowls upward. Set dripping cups at the points of the knives. Napkins are placed to the left of the forks, at right angles with the edge of the table.

Clara and Peggy Called at Trial Of Bill Fallon

New York, July 29.—With all the millions settled on her by her wealthy former husbands, Peggy Hopkins Joyce can still develop an appetite. As late as two years ago, while Peggy, the international heart-breaker who is now the Countess Gesta Morner, but has started separation proceedings, was temporarily unemployed, she resorted to the poor friendless chorus girl type one night and became so hungry that what may have been only five or ten minutes of waiting seemed like ages to Peggy.

This intimate revelation adds a touch of life to the trial of Attorney William J. Fallon, Broadway's fair-haired boy who has saved more people from jail than the present 48 governors have ever pardoned and is now being tried on a charge of bribing a juror.

Celebrities Called.
The names of many Broadway characters—those of actresses, a leading newspaper publisher, a film star and others—have come up now and then in the trial. Fallon knew them all and a number of them. Hence, it was what Broadway would call a distinguished crowd that flocked to the courtroom Monday to hear Peggy testify for the government.

Fallon was once Peggy's lawyer. On the night in question they were two of a party of four which drove north to eat at an expensive road-house, and it was on that night the government contends that Fallon held a significant conference with Charles W. Rendigs, the alleged bribed juror. Peggy, garbed gorgeously in evening dress, entered the court through the door usually reserved for the judge, and admitted that Fallon had left the table at the roadhouse for 20 or 30 minutes and that she finally had sent a waiter to bring him back.

The beautiful countess then faced the brilliant lawyer in a cross-examination. Her tongue embroidered with the letters "P. J." in blue silk. She wore a corsage of white orchids with red petals. It was just another stage appearance for Peggy and it soon became apparent that she and Fallon weren't enemies.

"Now, Miss Joyce," said Fallon persuasively, "you really do not know whether this visit of ours took place on November 6, or September 6, or on any other date, do you?"

"No, Mr. Fallon," she answered in a well modulated, somewhat plaintive drawl, "I do not believe I do."

Titters Annoy Judge.
The court room tittered until the count frowned ominously on the bench. "Now, countess," Fallon came again, "are you sure I was away from the table the length of the time you testified to?"

"Well," said Peggy, "it seemed that long to me."

"Countess, was my absence before or after we dined?"

"Before," this answer was emphatic.

"Won't you agree with me now, that perhaps you believed it was so long simply because you were so hungry?"

Peggy nodded her turbaned bobbed head and the spectators from over the Broadway boulevard right out loud. "If this performance is repeated the court room will be cleared," declared the judge.

Peggy said she hadn't seen Rendigs at the roadhouse that night.

After a few minor questions, Peggy was excused and Clara Phillips, another actress, testified she had been at the party.

Fallon is attempting to show that a New York newspaper and its publisher are responsible for this prosecution, which thus far has been touched on but vaguely and indirectly, may be introduced later.

BENNETTS BOUND FOR GRAND JURY

found. He said all the bones were not there and was unable to testify whether the skeleton was that of a man or a woman, or whether it was that of a white or black person.

The next witness was the owner of the house who told of renting the house to the Bennetts, and who said the Bennetts lived in the house from 1912 to 1917. She said she had seen Miss Hoffman, but there was no one else, did not know where she went to, except that Mrs. Bennett remarked one day she had gone to Knoxville.

1922 Paper About Skeleton.
The defense, which was handled by Judge Allison, brought out the fact that the Bennetts left the house in 1917, and when the skeleton was found it was wrapped in a paper, the date being 1922, which showed the skeleton had been placed in the basement long after the Bennetts left. The defense also attempted to show by witnesses that it was impossible to tell whether the skeleton was that of a man or woman.

Mrs. J. S. Hunt, owner of the house, related the details of the finding of the skeleton and having it removed to prevent the tenants becoming aware of the discovery. She said that she had noted the disappearance of the Bennetts and on inquiry of the Bennetts they stated that she had left for Knoxville. A short while afterward, she said, she noticed a disagreeable odor about the house occupied by the Bennetts.

Testimony was given by E. H. Warren, a detective, that he had found a record of eye-glasses made by a Knoxville jeweler for Miss Hoffman, and that the lenses found in the grave were made from the same prescription.

Identifies False Teeth.
W. A. Barker, of Memphis, testified that the false teeth found in the grave were similar to those used by his mother, and he understood the name of Miss Hoffman, had worn the same type. He said that following the disappearance of his aunt he had mentioned the circumstances to the presence of the Bennetts and that he had been asked by Bennett to refrain from broaching the subject in the presence of Bennett's mother, who was ill.

The surprise witness of the day, bringing as he did an affidavit from Mrs. Anna C. Wright, of Richmond, Va., who is a niece of Miss Augusta Hoffman, in which the false teeth found in the grave were positively identified as having belonged to Miss Hoffman. The affidavit stated that the teeth were made by a dentist named Rishel, in Pennsylvania, and that the same man had made false teeth for her mother, her Aunt Augusta and her Aunt Clara, the latter being the mother of Mr. Parker, the preceding witness. The affidavit further stated that the shoes found in the grave were of the same make, style and size as those worn habitually by Miss Hoffman, and that the beads were worn in the same manner as were Miss Hoffman's shoes.

ATLANTA FIREMEN WIN FIRST ROUND

Enactment of the Atlanta firemen's pension fund bill was unanimously recommended by the house committee on labor and labor statistics after a lengthy hearing Tuesday afternoon. The bill provides retirement on one-half pay after twenty-five years' service, or in case of total disability of a member hurt in service, and is sponsored by legislative delegations of Firemen and DeKalb counties.

An assessment of one-fourth of 1 per cent on the total amount of fire insurance premiums, paid within the corporate limits, and of 1 per cent on the salary of the 300 members of the department, is provided as a means of raising necessary revenue to pay the pensions. It is estimated that these assessments will yield an annual revenue of between $25,000 and $30,000.

Sam L. Olive, of Augusta, former president of the state senate, is directing the measure in behalf of the firemen and at the hearing Tuesday made an impassioned plea in behalf of the measure. He was followed by W. B. Coats, director of the fire department, who told of distress and suffering among members of the department and their families due to injuries sustained while performing their duties and how badly such vision is needed. He stated that during his many years as head of the Atlanta fire department he had never known of an instance where an insurance company came to the financial assistance of injured firemen, although he explained three individual fire insurance agents had made private contributions in as many instances.

JEWELERS WILL ELECT NEW OFFICERS TODAY

Election and installation of officers will feature the final meeting this morning of the Georgia Retail Jewelers' association, which began its annual two-day convention Tuesday at Hotel Ansley.

Delegates to the national convention at St. Louis also will be named, and the state next year's state meeting determined. William E. Arnold will tell what Atlanta jewelers have done through the "24-Karat club" organization to fight the jewelry auction evil.

Tuesday's morning and afternoon sessions were devoted chiefly to open discussions of topics "for the good of the craft." The association went on record in favor of the proposal to raise $3,000,000 for the development of the jewelry business in America, but opposed the plan of collecting the fund by assessment. Efforts will be made to have the state legislature pass a lien law to protect jewelers who do a credit business. President Harry Muench, of Atlanta, presided, and appointed nominations and resolutions committees to report today.

Following the afternoon business session, members of the association inspected the Stone Mountain memorial, continuing from there to East Lake, where a luncheon was held on the terrace. Hubert W. Anderson acted as toastmaster, introducing Willie West, who was the principal speaker of the association, read a message from President Edward H. Hufnagel, of the national association, expressing regret he was unable to attend the meeting.

10,000 Youngsters
Spend Happy Day
At Lakewood Park
More than 10,000 laughing, sparkling examples of happy childhood Tuesday transformed Lakewood park into a veritable fairland. Tuesday was the day on which the park was turned over to Atlanta children under the age of 15 years, and to park officers and officials of the Southern Fair association, which sponsored the proposition. It appeared that every youngster in the city took advantage of the opportunity.

From 8 o'clock in the morning until 6 in the afternoon the kiddies ruled, and an accident marred the happiness of the day. Every amusement device and ride in the park was thrown open to those who would use them, and an overwhelming majority of the youthful merry-makers not only would, but did.

The acroplane swings, merry-go-round, the whip, the old mill, through-the-falls, the greyhound, walking Charlie, the bug house, and numerous other places of amusement were crowded with youngsters from 10 o'clock until noon, and from 1:30 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The gates were opened at 8 o'clock in the morning, and every child under 15 years of age was given a ticket, with coupons good for all amusement devices.

Atlanta Boy Scouts, under direction of A. N. Stewart, assistant executive, maintained perfect order. The "lost and found" bureau for children and every child under 15 years of age was given a ticket, with coupons good for all amusement devices.

AUTO THEFT RING BARED IN MEMPHIS

Memphis, Tenn., July 29.—A gigantic automobile theft ring, operating in a number of the Mississippi valley states, was exposed tonight in an alleged confession, police said. They had procured from William B. Barnett, who was arrested in Centralia, Ill., several days ago and who is being held here on a charge of conspiracy to violate the Dyer act.

Barnett was alleged to have admitted numerous thefts involving more than 75 automobiles and covering a period of approximately eight months. The police said Barnett had admitted direct connection with 16 thefts, implicating 13 other persons who, he said, acted as his "paid thieves" and selling agents.

They're hapely, Lord knows,
But don't never suppose
That we let 'em give us any shocks.

You're allus so het up an' peerish,
An' scortchin' the atmosphere blue;
We don't git all riled
When you act kinda wild,
An' sling all that language at you!

Can't nothing we do never please you?
Why blame all the mischief on us?
Since old Adam ragged Eve,
I shorley believe
That you men ain't did nothin' but

THE GUMPS—CHANGE CARS

White Fang

BY JACK LONDON

He came cringing and crawling in to the firelight. Gray Beaver, saw him, and stopped munching the tallow. White Fang crawled slowly, cringing and groveling in the abjectness of his abasement and submission. He crawled straight toward Gray Beaver, every inch of his progress becoming slower and more painful. At last he lay at the master's feet, into whose possession he now surrendered himself, voluntarily, body and soul. Of his own choice, he came in to sit by man's fire and to be ruled by him. White Fang trembled, waiting for the punishment to fall upon him. There was a movement of the hand above him. He cringed involuntarily under the expected blow. It did not fall. He stole a glance upward. Gray Beaver was breaking the lump of tallow in half. Gray Beaver was offering him one piece of the tallow! Very gently and somewhat suspiciously, he first sniffed the tallow and then proceeded to eat it. Gray Beaver ordered meat to be brought to him, and guarded him from the other dogs while he ate. After that, grateful and content, White Fang lay at Gray Beaver's feet, gazing at the fire that warmed him, blinking, dozing, secure in the knowledge that the morrow would find him, not wandering forlorn through bleak forest-stretches, but in the camp of the man-animals, with the gods to whom he had given himself and upon whom he was now dependent.

CHAPTER V.

The Covenant.

When December was well along, Gray Beaver went on a journey up the Mackenzie. Mit-sah and Kloo-kooch went with him. One sled he drove himself, drawn by dogs he had traded for or borrowed. A second and smaller sled was driven by Mit-sah, and to this was harnessed a team of puppies. It was more of a toy affair than anything else, yet it was the delight of Mit-sah, who felt that he was beginning to do a man's work in the world. Also as he was learning to drive dogs and to train dogs; while the puppies themselves were being broken into the harness. Further, the sled was of some service, for it carried nearly two hundred pounds of outfit and food.

White Fang had seen the camp-dogs toiling in the harness so that he did not resent overmuch the first placing of the harness upon himself. About his neck was put a moss-stuffed collar, which was connected by two pulling traces to a strap that passed around his chest and over his back. It was to this that was fastened the long rope by which he pulled at the sled.

There were seven puppies in the team. The others had been born earlier in the year and were nine and ten months old, while White Fang was only eight months old. Each dog was fastened to the sled by a single rope. No two ropes were of the same length, while the difference in length between any two ropes was at least that of a dog's body. Every rope was brought to a ring at the front end of the sled. The sled itself was without runners, being a birchbark toboggan, with upturned forward end to keep it from ploughing under the snow. This construction enabled the weight of the sled and load to be distributed over the largest snow-surface; for the snow was crystal-powder and very soft. Observing the same principle of widest distribution of weight the dogs at the end of the ropes radiated fan fashion from the nose of the sled, so that no dog trod in another's foot-steps. There was, furthermore, another virtue in the fan-formation. The ropes of varying length prevented the dogs' attacking from the rear those that ran in front of them. For a dog to attack another, it would have to turn upon one at a shorter rope. In which case it would find itself face to face with the dog attacked, and also it would find itself facing the whip of the driver. But the most peculiar virtue of all lay in the fact that the dog that strove to attack one in front of him must pull the sled faster, and that the faster the sled traveled, the faster could the dog attacked run away. Thus, the dog behind could never catch up with the one in front.

Atlanta Society Is Represented In Asheville, N. C.

Atlanta society was well represented among those having dinner at Grove Park Inn Sunday evening, and composed a large part of the audience at the organ concert by Harry Edward Mueller afterward.

A pleasing number arranged on the program was the graceful little melody, composed for the violin by General Charles G. Dawes, republican vice president nominee. Other selections of noted composers were played by Mr. Mueller, who is an organist possessing unusual talent.

The group of Atlantans included Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Orme, Sr. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Orme, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cone, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodruff, Mrs. James D. Robinson, Mrs. Gordon Kiser, Mrs. J. Spole Lyon, Mr. and Mrs. Sam J. Finley, Mr. and Mrs. Albert N. Barnett, Miss Elma Harwell, Mrs. E. H. Phillips, Frank Phillips, Mrs. Adelaide Howell Bower, Miss Constance Cone, Miss Louise Dooly, Mrs. Ralph Millard, Eugene Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Rogers, Mrs. L. W. Rogers, Miss Beverly Rogers, Mrs. Harry Poole, James D. Robinson, Jr., English Robinson, Miss Callie Orme, Mr. and Mrs. William Huger, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Barnard, of Atlanta, and Asheville, Archie Lee, of St. Louis, formerly of Atlanta.

Other distinguished guests included Mrs. Frank Lipscomb and Mrs. E. G. Hodgson, of Athens; Mrs. F. L. Seely, E. W. Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Massey, of Macon.

Two Visitors Given Tea by Miss Chestnut.

Miss Ruby Matthews, the guest of Miss Helen Bradberry, and Miss Elsie Huey, the charming guest of Miss Margaret Chestnut were complimented by Miss Chestnut at a lovely bridge-tee Tuesday afternoon at her home on Briarcliff road.

The house was beautifully decorated with a profusion of yellow gladioli, snapdragons and golden glow, and the color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in detail.

Miss Chestnut wore a becoming black and white sport model. Miss Matthews wore a lovely costume of blue embroidered voile. Miss Huey was gowned in Chinese yellow crepe de chine.

The guests included Misses Louise Bradberry, Helen Bradberry, Ruby Matthews, Elsie Huey, Gertrude Peoples, Katherine Conney, Julia Culver, Edith Morris, Ruth Starke, Frances Quisenberry, Miriam Hutchins, Lucile Lloyd, Mary Speffer, Lottie Tison, Cecile Corbett, Mamie Pope Reese, Sarah Barnes, Ellen Gordon, Margaret Bostwick, Adelle Anderson, Lorraine Phail and Louise Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sims Stewart Entertain Bridal Party

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Stewart entertained at a buffet supper Tuesday evening, following the wedding rehearsal of their daughter, Miss Alice Stewart, and Raymond Weathers Stephens, whose marriage will be a brilliant event of this evening.

Vases and baskets of bright garden flowers were used in the reception rooms, and the table in the dining room was covered with a handsome imported lace cloth, and gracing the center was a larger silver basket of summer flowers. Silver candlesticks held unshaded tapers and alternated with silver compotes of mints and bonbons.

Miss Stewart was lovely in a gown of green and silver brocade, combined with tulle.

Mrs. Stewart was handsomely gowned in jade blue satin trimmed with blue lace draperies.

Miss Nan Lee was attractively costumed in canary colored georgette embroidered in crystals.

Miss Anita Burke wore a model of white embroidered net.

The guests included the members of the bridal party, Misses Edna Anderson, Anita Burke, Elizabeth Broughton, Roslyn Poole, Mary Brown Spaulding, Nan Lee, Pat D. Stephens, Jr., Charles D. Reese, M. A. Hamrick, J. C. Ivey, Lloyd Cole, C. W. Corliss, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Stephens, Mrs. Edgar G. David, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stewart, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Seng.

Mrs. Wright Honored. By Mrs. Goodyear.

Mrs. Chester Goodyear, Jr., entertained at her home on Forrest avenue in compliment to her sister, Mrs. J. P. Wright, of Charlotte, N. C., at bridge-tee Tuesday afternoon.

Throughout the rooms where the game was played summer flowers in pastel shades were used as the decorations.

Invited were Mrs. Enrico Leida, Mrs. L. D. McMath, Mrs. F. A. Chester, Mrs. D. A. L. Phelps, Mrs. B. F. Lyon, Mrs. R. F. Sadler, Mrs. J. L. Gray and Misses Margaret Mitchell, Mamie Gardner and Jane Toole.

Fair-Weather Wives

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

Trying Her Wings.

It was some moments before Marjorie could believe that she had heard aright when Hollister's lawyer asked her if she would be willing to divorce her client with a settlement for life of more than half his fortune.

As it was, she made him repeat it, while she stared at him only half comprehending, and her brain whirled wildly with the thought:

"Freedom at last! Like a gift from heaven!"

"But why—how—what—" she knew she was stammering absurdly.

"My client believes that, after all, it is best to release you from your unhappy contract, Mrs. Hollister. You are young, it is possible that you may want to marry again. It is unfair to tie you to a—"

"He caught himself up quickly, and went on, flushing a little, 'to a man you do not love and will never consider as your husband. He wishes you to be assured that he bears no malice, nor blames you in the least for the entire unfortunate affair. And he offers you your freedom with the assurance that you can never suffer. In fact,' he added dryly, 'he makes you one of the wealthiest young women in New York.'"

There was little more to the interview. The necessary details of the divorce would be handled by Hollister's solicitors. There was nothing for Marjorie to do but sign a few papers when the time came. The whole affair would receive the least publicity possible.

"Is Mr. Hollister in New York now?" faltered Marjorie as the lawyer was leaving. She felt acutely embarrassed about inquiring for a husband who had suddenly ceased to want to be so called. It was a strange turning of the tables after her two years of yearning for just such a moment.

The lawyer hesitated.

"He is—er—at his place in the mountains. He is going to remain there for—er—some time."

"When you see him, or write to him, will you give him a message?" asked Marjorie earnestly. "Will you tell him how grateful I am for his generosity in the past, how happy he has made me by this decision to set me free and not bear rancor at what has happened? And, will you also tell him that I cannot, under any conditions, accept the settlement which he so kindly offers?"

The lawyer fairly gasped.

"But my dear Mrs. Hollister," he was beginning to protest, but she raised a slim hand.

"Please, that is final! I am going to get my self-respect back after two years."

He tried to argue but she was smilingly obdurate. She sent him away experiencing a sense of defeat. She had been clever to wait until the last minute before springing her bombshell, he acknowledged. She had let him think that everything was settled according to the terms outlined by Hollister.

Well, he thought with a shrug as he swung aboard the 5:20, Hollister would have another trump up his sleeve. He would get around her refusal to accept a monetary settlement somehow. She would never be permitted to give up luxury.

Marjorie, meanwhile, had sped across the lawn to Cora Forester's. Her heart was singing gaily. Her eyes sparkled with the unexpected joy of freedom. Freedom after all these years, after all those carefully laid plans that one by one had come to naught! How true it was that happiness was a whimsical, elusive thing that comes only when one has ceased to search for it!

She stopped abruptly on the threshold of Mrs. Forester's drawing room. The thought of Tom Grosvenor came to her, a thought that had been absent for weeks. Why, this meant that she could marry Tom!

She frowned a little. Too soon, she thought. Let her cherish the joy of freedom for a little while after two years of bondage.

But Cora Forester, when she had heard the glad news, refused to let her forget her promise to Tom.

"He's been miserable, poor boy, for months. You haven't even written him. He's lost hope and his mother writes me that he's going the pace trying to forget. You owe it to him to let him know, Marjorie. For two years you've let him believe that you would marry him as soon as you were free."

Some of the bright sunshine seemed to have fled. Marjorie felt sobered. The care-free girl who had romped across the lawn with a joyousness she hadn't experienced since the night her mother had told her that she must marry Reed Hollister and save the family from penury.

Reluctantly, she promised to write Tom that night and she went back to Sundview, much more sedately than she had come.

She was reading in the library, curled up in her favorite chair when voices in the drawing room acquainted her with the fact that Mrs. Boice-Nevis was entertaining a visitor at ten. She recognized Mrs. Thornton Bayne's heavy voice, and was just about to rise and close the library door, with a little grimace of distaste at the interruption, when Reed Hollister's name on the caller's lip halted her.

After that, she sat quietly listening, hands clenched, and white face a horror-stricken mask in the twilight.

$900,000 Garage Planned On Cotton Warehouse Site

Plans for a new six-story garage in Atlanta to cost $900,000, and which will be the largest and most modern in the south, were made public Tuesday when promoters of the project purchased the old cotton warehouse property on Ivy street for $172,500, of $115,000 per front foot. Architect's plans for the garage already have been completed and construction will be started as soon as the legal technicalities regarding formation of the corporation have been completed. The property was sold at public outcry by Forrester Adair, Sr., of the Adair Realty & Trust company, and was bid in by Attorney Edward L. Meyer, representing Bolling H. Jones, Robert P. Jones and Joel Hurt, Jr., who, with himself and other stockholders, comprise the corporation which plans the new building. The sale was marked by spirited bidding, the first bid being $750 per front foot, or about $100,000 for the property, the bids being worked up until finally the bid was sold to Mr. Meyer for $115,000 per front foot. The property is located on Ivy street directly opposite the Hurt building, and across the street from the Atlanta Commercial Exchange. It has a frontage of 150 feet on Ivy street and a depth of 210 feet. The new garage is to be modeled after the famous Elliott street garage in Boston. It will be six stories high and will provide accommodations for 1,200 automobiles. The building will be fireproof, of reinforced concrete, and the upper floors will be reached by means of spiral one-way ramps, making it impossible for cars to collide either in entering or leaving the building. Bolling H. Jones, who recently inspected the Elliott street garage, stated that in that garage it is possible to drive from the street to the sixth floor and back in high gear, and in a period of one minute.

$2,500,000 STOCK SALE IS RATIFIED BY POWER COMPANY

Stockholders of the Georgia Railway and Power company, at a special meeting at the Electric and Gas building Tuesday, formally ratified the issuance and sale of $2,500,000 in 7 per cent first preferred cumulative stock, which has been sold at 100 cents on the dollar. At the same time the stockholders voted to amend the charter and by-laws of the company to provide for the new stock issuance and prescribe the rights, privileges and preferences of all the several series of the first preferred cumulative stock, heretofore issued and hereafter to be issued. Money derived from the sale of the stock, it was announced, will be devoted to the completion of the Terrell and Yonah water power developments in north Georgia, both of which are well under way of construction. At Terrell, work on the tunnel is being completed and foundations for the power house are being laid, and about 900 feet long, company officials stated.

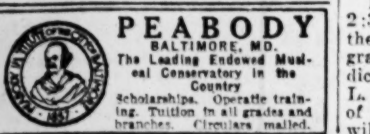

BROTHERHOOD "BOYS" PLAN BIG OUTING

Members of the Brotherhood of Central Presbyterian Sunday school will leave early in August in automobiles for a few days camping trip to the big dam on the Ocmulgee river near Jackson, Ga., in Butts county, it was learned Tuesday. Elaborate preparations are being made for the outing, according to E. Walter Moore, of Jenkinsburg, who has arranged a big fish fry for the Brotherhood "boys" the day of arrival. The following have listed for the trip: W. O'Callaghan, Jr., Dr. W. A. Upchurch, Sam Fraser, Wharton Clayton, George S. Ramsey, William F. Buchanan, Ernest C. Bell, E. C. Brown, "Shark" Thompson, Miller G. Clapp, George Winship, R. H. Smith, Judge Andy E. Calhoun, Robert Telford, William A. Crawford, Oscar Hend, John S. McLeary, of Riverdale; E. R. Silder, G. W. McGaughey, Claude B. Nealy, William F. Greene, Lon Wade, and others.

NEW SENATE BILLS

New bills introduced in the senate Tuesday were as follows: By Grantham of the 46th—To provide for all boards and commissions authorized to collect fees or commissions to make annual report. By Grantham—To amend the act creating the new charter for the county of Douglas. By Pace of the 15th—To amend the act providing for the inspection of calcium arsenate. By Spence of the 8th—To repeal act regulating and controlling the practice of public accounting in Georgia. By Carswell of the 21st—To codify school laws of Georgia.

$270,894.85 DUE STATE TREASURY

Although reports of tax collectors in 35 counties of the state have not been received yet, the balance due the state treasury to complete settlement of ad valorem collections for 1923 is only $270,894.85, it was stated Tuesday by William A. Harrison, tax collector in office of Comptroller-General Wright. Final reports have been made by only 75 of the 160 counties, but the small balance due is caused by the fact that settlements have been made in practically all counties having a large proportionate share of taxes, it is pointed out. According to the tax digest collections for 1923 are expected to total $5,109,719.91, including ad valorem and poll taxes. Of this sum $4,794,651.91 is ad valorem, and $365,068.00 is poll taxes. Of the total amount $4,838,825.08 has been paid in. The large proportion of amount paid in, compared to the proportion of counties which have made their final settlement, is due to the fact that practically all those counties still in arrears, owe only a small amount. Fulton, for instance, which pays a heavy proportion of the ad valorem tax of the state, has not made final settlement yet, though practically all taxes have been paid in.

The figures given above do not allow for insolvent taxpayers, which will reduce the final total somewhat, although this loss will probably be offset by added collections for properties not on the digest, which also are not included.

ATLANTAS HEAR MARKETING TALK BY JUDGE BRYAN

At the regular weekly luncheon Tuesday of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Judge Bryan addressed members on the subject of "Cooperative Marketing." Judge Bryan explained the growth of this movement among the farmers of Georgia and other states, and told of its benefits. In his talk he showed how cooperative marketing, as now developed, prevents dumping of cotton and other agricultural products on the market in the two or three months following the harvest.

The humorous feature of the meeting was provided by J. H. Johnson, Atlanta blackface comedian, who entertained with monologues and pantomimes.

Dr. Patrick H. Jones, Stephens Mitchell, Clarence W. Wall and Henry C. Taylor were elected to membership.

It was announced that the luncheon next Tuesday would be in charge of Herbert H. Wagners, and on August 7, in charge of Tom Brannon.

OFFICERS SEIZE HUGE QUANTITY OF CORN LIQUOR

County police and deputy sheriffs Tuesday confiscated 1,100 gallons of corn whiskey, 1,000 gallons of which was stored in a fashionable residential section—St. Charles avenue, near Ponce de Leon avenue—while 100 gallons represented the cargo of an automobile which was chased for more than two miles on the Roswell road. Deputy Sheriffs Jim White, Jim Bazemore, Lee Wintley and J. L. Milam conducted the raid upon the St. Charles avenue residence and arrested H. J. May, who was placed under a $1,000 bond.

UPSHAW RETURNS FROM KENTUCKY SPEAKING TOUR

Congressman W. D. Upshaw returned here Tuesday from Kentucky where he went in response to telegrams calling him to address good citizenship rallies at Paducah, New Castle and Lexington. He has accepted an invitation from Dr. Kalb county friends to attend the annual patriotic rally at Rock Chapel, where he will deliver an address on "The Teacher Who Wins," at the Sunday school celebration at Christian church.

Tuesday night the congressman was the speaker at a watermelon cutting given by the Busy Men's Bible class, taught by his kinsman, E. N. Upshaw, and the Young Men's Hebrew class of Moreland Avenue Baptist church.

The speaker made humorous reference to the fact that the melons having been cooled in the baptistery, were properly "baptized before entering in to the membership of the church."

PRISONER YIELDS RUNNING HONORS TO FAST DEPUTY

E. G. Cook, 22, under arrest on a charge of cheating and swindling, leaped through a window in the courthouse offices of Sheriff J. J. Lewis Tuesday afternoon and ran for several blocks on Central avenue before being captured by Deputy Sheriff Jim Bazemore.

Cook was at the sheriff's office to make bond of $500, having been bound over on the above charge. While the papers were being drawn up, Cook suddenly jumped through the window. Deputy Bazemore saw him and was right after him. On being returned to the sheriff's office Cook was said to have called for a pistol "to blow his brains out."

NEW HOUSE BILLS

New bills introduced in the house Tuesday were as follows: By Wingate of Baker—To amend act creating board of commissioners of Baker county so as to provide for five instead of three members. By Collins of Cherokee—To change term of superior court in Cherokee. By Beck and Spence of Carroll—To increase salary of county commissioners of Carroll. By Boswell of Greene—To amend charter of city of Greensboro. By Phillips of Telfair—To repeal an act authorizing town of Lumber City to issue bonds for waterworks, approved 1880.

By Phillips of Telfair—To amend act incorporating city of Jessup relative to terms and election of mayor and aldermen.

By Smith of Lamar—To extend limits of town of Aldora to include lands of Aldora mills in Lamar county.

By Beck and Spence of Carroll—To appropriate $4,700 for deficiency at Tenth District A. and M. school at Granite Hill.

House resolution by Braddy of Glascock—To appropriate $5,800 for repairs at Soldiers' home.

ATLANTAS PROMISE A. M. E. CHURCH FUNDS

Contributions to be used in paying off the indebtedness on the St. Philip's A. M. E. church were promised Sunday by W. B. Baker, president of the Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation, and John A. Manget, of the Georgia Yam Curing Company, Inc., well-known capitalist and philanthropist. Bishop J. S. Flipper, of the A. M. E. church, subscribed $25.

Mr. Baker, who addressed a mass meeting held at the church Sunday to formulate plans for raising the $7,400 due, offered to give $1 for every dollar contributed by members of the church up to $250. Mr. Manget announced that if church members raise $950, he will give an additional $50, and if they raise as much as $1,425 he will donate $75. The church owes a note of $6,200 and other indebtedness amounts to $1,200.

The subject of Mr. Baker's address was "Help the Helpers." Dr. W. J. Williams, pastor of the Cosmopolitan A. M. E. church also spoke at the meeting, and Dr. J. H. McFarland delivered an address Sunday night at the same church.

A. M. E. MINISTERS PLAN AMERICUS PROGRAM

In the weekly A. M. E. ministers' meeting held Wednesday at Big Bethel church, Bishop Flipper ordered 42 presiding elders and the executive board of Morris Brown university to meet in the Allen Christian Endeavor League and Sunday school convention Wednesday, August 20.

Rev. C. A. Winfield and Rev. C. L. Williams, heads of the Sunday school and league departments, respectively, have prepared a program for 5,000 young people at the meet in Americus. Dr. M. A. Fountain is pastor of the church in which the program will be carried out.

Bishop W. A. Fountain, of Alabama; Bishop A. D. Chappelle, of South Carolina; Bishop W. D. Johnson, of Texas; Bishop John Hurst, of Florida; Bishop R. C. Ransom, of Tennessee, and Bishop Gaines, of the West Indies, are to be present and will address the young people.

President John H. Lewis, of Morris Brown university, and other negro educators will speak on various phases of education.

Dr. W. Boyd Lawrence will preach the opening sermon for the convention. D. J. T. Hall, of Big Bethel church, will talk on "Topic of the Bible."

BANDITS MAKE HAUL UPON ILLINOIS BANK

Highland, Ill., July 29.—Three bandits held up the First National Bank of Highland this afternoon and escaped with between $17,000 and $20,000.

The three men forced Earl Malan, assistant cashier, and two bookkeepers one a woman, to lie on the floor while they scooped the cash from money drawers. Then they compelled Malan to unlock the vault, from which they obtained some $15,000.

MRS. FERGUSON HOLDS SECOND PLACE LEAD

Dallas, Texas, July 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, democratic candidate for the nomination for governor, maintained a lead of 3,450 over Lynch Davidson for second place on Saturday's initial democratic primary, according to returns tabulated today by the Texas election bureau.

The returns were from 237 out of 252 counties with 55 counties complete.

Mrs. Ferguson is the first woman candidate for governor of Texas. She is seeking the office to avenge her husband, Governor Jim Ferguson, who was impeached.

The vote of the three leading candidates is as follows:

Felix Robertson 164,293.
Mrs. Ferguson 121,263.
Lynch Davidson 117,813.

To vindicate Name.

One of the objects of the campaign of Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, democratic candidate for governor of Texas, has been to vindicate the Ferguson name, she and her husband, James E. Ferguson, former governor, declare. In his second term as governor, Mr. Ferguson was impeached by the legislature. He was charged with improper conduct of his office and in passing judgment the court of impeachment declared he should not hold public state office. He has sought strenuously to come back into public life as an office holder.

Since then he has entered various campaigns under his own name asking for vindication. Four years ago he sought the presidency as the leader of the American party. Two years ago he sought the democratic nomination for U. S. senator and entered what in Texas is considered the final stage by being second man in the first primary and the opponent of Earl R. Mayfield for final nomination in the run-off. Mayfield, however, defeated him. One of Ferguson's reiterated pleas to voters was to support him and vindicate his name.

This year he first considered the race for governor, but the courts held his name could not go on the ballots.

COMMITTEE O. K.'S NEW CITY COURT FOR BLUE RIDGE

After a public hearing, attended by approximately five hundred citizens of Fannin county, the house committee on general judiciary number two, Tuesday voted, 11 to 9, to recommend favorably the bill to create a city court in the town of Blue Ridge, in Fannin county.

Supporters of the bill claimed that the new court would relieve the congested docket. There are now, they said, two terms of superior court in the county, of one week each, with the result that many prisoners are kept in jail for six months or more before trial, with the consequent heavy expense on the county for their support.

The bill names the first judge and solicitor of the new court and provides that the governor shall appoint their successors from nominees selected by lawyers practicing before the court.

TERMINAL COMPANY SEEKING TO ENJOIN TAXICAB CONCERN

Further trouble between the Atlanta Terminal company and local taxicab operators was revealed Tuesday in a suit for injunction by the former to prevent the Black and White Cab company from soliciting fares on the Terminal station plaza. Similar suit against another cab company was filed some months ago.

The bill filed Tuesday alleges the Black and White company has been parking cabs on the plaza in front of the Terminal station to solicit passengers, whereas, under a contract between the Terminal company and the Atlanta Baggage and Cab company, the last named company only has this right. It alleges further that a city ordinance makes it unlawful for the defendant company to do more than stop in front of the station long enough to discharge passengers or pick them up.

Judge E. D. Thomas signed an order requiring the Black and White cab company to show cause in the motion division of Fulton superior court, August 16, why it should not be enjoined from doing the things complained of.

HALF-CENT GASOLINE TAX BILL IS REPORTED

A house bill providing for an additional state tax of one-half cent per gallon on gasoline was favorably reported by the house committee on public highways at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon. Authors of the measure, which is a substitute for house bill No. 902, explained that, although the state is not getting this half cent, the gasoline consumer is paying it, the money going into the pockets of the gasoline companies.

The Georgia tax at present totals 3 1/2 cents per gallon and, owing to the impossibility of making change for a half cent, oil distributors simply add four cents to the price to cover taxes, it was pointed out. Under the proposed bill, the state would take the full four-cent tax, which it is claimed, would not raise the price to the consumer at all.

Where Money Goes.

In addition to providing for the additional half-cent tax, the bill provides the extra money collected shall go to the state highway department and that the one-cent portion of the tax now going to retire the W & A rentals shall likewise go to the highway department after the necessary $540,000 per annum to meet this debt is paid in. Inasmuch as a one-cent tax brings in approximately $1,000,000 annually, this would give the state department $480,000 additional.

The bill leaves the one-cent portion, which now goes to counties on a pro rata basis of the state highway mileage, as it is, but was amended to provide that the surplus from the one-half cent inspection tax, after inspectors' fees are paid, shall go to the highway department, instead of into the general treasury as at present.

The committee also favorably reported, by a vote of 7 to 6, a bill by Representative Jones, of Covington, providing that automobiles sold in the state after January 1, 1925, shall be equipped with headlights approved and licensed by the secretary of state.

It also approved a local bill by Representative Pickren, of Charlton county, providing for the employment of a highway superintendent for that county.

Aged Mother Wins 16-Year Battle For Son's Freedom

Nashville, Tenn., July 29.—An aged mother from the Tennessee mountains today won a battle that she has fought single-handed against the powers of the state for the last sixteen years, when her plea that her son, a prisoner in the state penitentiary here, be pardoned, was granted.

Mrs. Sam Hatfield, 63, the mother, appeared before the parole board and, with the gentle mountain drawl in her voice, addressed Governor Austin Peay as "son," and the members of the parole board as "children." But she took the full four-cent tax, which it is claimed, would not raise the price to the consumer at all.

Her son, Lon Hatfield, was convicted in 1908 for the murder of a minister. The sole tangible evidence against him was a pocket watch, which was found in Hatfield's pocket after the murder. Hatfield declared that the watch belonged to him, but the jury rejected this claim and convicted him on circumstantial evidence.

Immediately after sentence was passed on her son the mother began her battle for his freedom. She sold her small farm and with the proceeds hired lawyers to establish her son's innocence. Practically all of the $5,000 she derived from this sale has been spent in the attempt to win a pardon for "Lonnie," as she calls him. Prison officials assert that during the last sixteen years she has made at least fifty trips to the penitentiary to present her plea to the authorities and to see her son.

At last she obtained from both the judge and the prosecuting attorney requests that Lon Hatfield be pardoned. These requests were joined by the widow of the minister and by a number of prominent citizens of the state. Some of these requests are dated as early as 1914.

Today, after her plea had been presented for the fifteenth time, Mrs. Hatfield was told by Governor Peay that he would make her a Christmas present of her son.

FRENCH FIND COMFORT IN HUGHES' ADDRESS

Paris, July 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—The climax of the round of social and official activities of the American and Canadian lawyers today was the declaration of Secretary of State Hughes at the Palace of Justice that "there is no cure for the distress and unrest which are the natural consequences of the war save as we may find it in the disposition of peoples intent on the interests of peace."

This remark, for which the American statesman was enthusiastically applauded by his fellow lawyers of France, was interpreted by some of the French jurists present as a suggestion that European peoples must get together and reconcile their differences.

The American and Canadian lawyers were kept busy this afternoon by their French hosts, who strained every effort to show them the best there is in Paris in way of entertainment while at the same time paying the usual ceremonial homage to their professional colleagues from across the Atlantic. It was largely a speech-making program, but it was sufficiently interspersed with musical entertainment to relieve the monotony.

Mr. Hughes received the most marked attention when, in an address at the city hall, he dwelt on the necessity of developing international law in a way which might have been as a discreet reference to current events.

After the reception at the Palace of Justice, the visiting lawyers, including Mr. Hughes, attended the unveiling of a tablet to the memory of French lawyers who fell on the field in battle. This visit paid a tribute in American colors to the tablet.

GEORGIA IS LARGEST FERTILIZER CONSUMER

Washington, July 29.—(Special.)—Approximately 2,000,000 tons of fertilizer have been used on the cotton crop this year, the United States department of agriculture estimates.

Increased use of fertilizer is reported from all the cotton-growing states. Georgia used 483,000 tons this year; North Carolina, 406,000 tons; Louisiana, 338,000 tons; Mississippi, 334,000 tons; Alabama, 334,000 tons; Mississippi, 150,000 tons; and Texas, 109,000 tons.

It is estimated that fertilizer this year is used on 90 per cent of the cotton acreage in North Carolina, 98 per cent in Virginia, 95 per cent in South Carolina and Georgia, 91 per cent in Florida, 88 per cent in Alabama, 50 per cent in Louisiana, 45 per cent in Tennessee, 35 per cent in Arkansas and on small fractions, if any, of the acreage in other cotton states.

The average cost of fertilizer per cotton acre this year was as high as $3.03 in Virginia, $3.01 in North Carolina, and $2.97 in South Carolina. The cost in Georgia was $3.04, and less in other states, the lowest cost per acre being $2.17 in Missouri.

SMITH AGAIN PLEDGES EVERY HELP TO DAVIS

New York, July 29.—Governor Smith had a long conference with Clem L. Shaver, democratic national chairman, today to devise plans whereby he could devote his every effort to further the candidacy of John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president.

"I will make a speaking tour; I will do anything I can to help the nation," that Mr. Shaver said to the governor, "that Mr. Davis should be elected."

The governor said that Mr. Davis had not spoken to him about becoming a candidate for re-election but that he expected to discuss the matter with the presidential nominee when Mr. Davis returned to New York on Thursday.

"Mr. Shaver told me," said the governor, "that Mr. Davis would return to the city Thursday and that he wanted to see me. I told him I would be in the city until Sunday and would meet Mr. Davis some time later in the week."

Governor Smith declined to comment on reports that a move would be made to move the Ku Klux Klan by name in the democratic state platform.

Mr. Shaver, asked about the report that Mr. Davis intended to urge the governor to run again, said: "I am a warm admirer of Governor Smith. He is a sincere man and I have not the slightest doubt that he will do anything he has pledged himself to do."

GLASS GETTING WELL OF PTOMAINE ATTACK

Lynchburg, Va., July 29.—Senator Carter Glass, who suffered an attack of ptomaine poisoning shortly after his return here from the democratic convention, had recovered sufficiently today to be able to leave for Washington. Senator Glass expects to clear his desk of all important matters before returning to his farm near this city.

Commercial Air Aces Entertain Visiting Admen

Paris, July 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—The American and Canadian advertising men wound up their official visit to the French capital this evening with a gala performance at the opera after an afternoon spent in watching the acrobats of the French commercial aviation service do their most thrilling stunts under adverse weather conditions.

The Americans were particularly thrilled by Aviator Frontal, who performed a whole series of aerial acrobatics in a Morane-Saulnier airplane, which maneuvered like a polo pony. Short hops were taken by about 150 of the advertising men and their wives. Laurent Eynac, under-secretary for aviation, welcomed the party to the aviation field.

The advertising men and their families had lunch at 3 o'clock on the Bois de Boulogne at the famous restaurants, the Pre Catelan, the Hermitage and Armandville, after which they drove to the flying field and watched the arrival and departure of several planes of the London-Paris passenger route.

A large number of the advertising men will leave for home on Wednesday and most of the rest will follow on Saturday.

SUMMERVILLE MILLS WILL RUN FULL TIME

Summerville, Ga., July 29.—(Special.)—The Summerville Cotton mills of this place, Monday resumed full time operations, after having run only five days a week for several months. While the mills will close at noon on Saturdays, the equivalent of six days per week will be made by working eleven hours per day up to Saturday.

NO. 658 NORTH JACKSON STREET

We are pleased to recommend this stylish brick bungalow which is located in our Glendale Terrace subdivision, situated a little beyond Ponce de Leon Avenue. The lot is one of the best in our subdivision; it faces east and lies at a fair elevation right in front of Greenwood avenue very close to the Forest Avenue and Boulevard car line.

This house has six rooms and bath, also breakfast room. The rear lot is fenced in, and there is a garage and side drive. Along with this house the purchaser will get the cement flower boxes, also shades and awnings, and anyone who has bought such things knows the cost runs into money. We can make very reasonable terms and give quick possession of this desirable bungalow.

HUGHES WELL PLEASED WITH U. S. EMBASSY

Paris, July 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Secretary of State Hughes, who is in London, began the day by inspecting, in company with Ambassador Herriek, the new American embassy, over which Stars and Stripes were raised for the first time since Independence day.

The visitors expressed themselves as highly pleased with the new embassy. The work of renovating the mansion has not yet been done, but Ambassador Herriek was able to give his chief of staff, what the new official American home in France will look like when completed.

After this visit Secretary and Mrs. Hughes took a drive around the town prior to taking luncheon with M. Jusserand, French ambassador to the United States. This was an intimate formal affair.

While they were at the embassy a steady stream of callers kept the porter of the Herriek household busy opening the door to the Secretary and his wife. He said he could not find it impossible to see more than a small portion of those anxious to have a word with him.

CARAVANERS PLAN FOR BIG PROGRAM THURSDAY NIGHT

The most minute detail of the big six-act vaudeville program, to be presented Thursday night at Macabee temple, by the Caravan club, has been completed, according to announcement Tuesday night by Joe Elliott, in charge of arrangements.

The program, the first of a series of semi-monthly affairs to be staged during the coming fall and winter months under direction of Mr. Elliott, will include six acts of vaudeville, featuring a number of sensational stars, and a three-rod exhibition bout between Bill McGowan, local heavyweight, and an opponent to be named today. Mr. Elliott, regarded throughout the country as one of the nation's foremost black-face comedians, will play the stellar role in the program.

The Caravan club, known in Macabee circles as the "playground," was recently authorized by national headquarters and the Caravan club, has been completed, according to announcement Tuesday night by Joe Elliott, in charge of arrangements.

The next program in the series will be announced at an early date, Mr. Elliott stated Tuesday.

DUNLOP Balloons

The regular weekly meeting of officers of the 122d infantry, national guard, will be held at noon today in the Rainbow room of the Ansley hotel.

Assistant General Charles H. Corbin, Lieutenant Colonel Eugene Oberdorfer and Captain Basil Stockbridge are scheduled to discuss certain phases of the new encampment of the regiment, which begins August 17, at St. Simon island.

The weekly luncheon meetings are attended by about 25 officers and are of interest to national guard officers and plans are discussed.

PLAN PLAIN STYLES FOR MEN'S CLOTHING

Cedar Point, Ohio, July 29.—Men's apparel, plain this year, is going to be more so next year, according to delegates attending the annual sessions of the Merchant Tailor Designers' association.

The designers, who are applying their ingenuity to styles for the spring and summer of 1925, say that the average man has never looked with favor on the "flashy make up."

They declare the thing that is causing them the most worry at the present time is the outfitting and particularly the golfing course.

"We have gone the limit in the matter of the golfing outfit," said John R. Aikens, of Detroit. "A new idea in the golf suit line excites much interest among the designers who have about worn themselves out thinking up this, that, and the other thing."

HUGHES GOING TO GIVE GERMAN FRANK TALK

BY ERIC KEYSER.
Berlin, July 29.—Secretary of State Hughes, after conferring with the heads of the reparations conference here, today announced that he will give a frank talk to the German representatives on the eve of their departure for London.

This, at least, is the belief of government officials as American Ambassador Hughes today plans to give a private dinner in the embassy Sunday, at which Hughes will confer with Chancellor Marx, Foreign Minister Stresemann and others.

The German representatives now expect to depart for London Monday. Meanwhile, Hughes, as "an attorney," will be one of the first-hand knowledge of the French attitude in Paris, will now deliver a frank but unofficial message to the German representatives on the eve of their departure for London.

Some Germans are inclined to be pessimistic about the new day of the allied invitation of the German representatives, but it is suggested in other quarters that the delay may have been made intentionally in order to give Hughes time to consult with the leaders and help create a proper frame of mind among them in advance.

Meanwhile, the nationalists are scoffing at the progress of the conference at London. The Deutsche Zeitung refers to it as "the comedy at London."
